RUIN PREDICTED IN REPARATIONS STEP BY FRANCE

English Declare French Play
Losing Hand In Every Advance.

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The military occupation of the Ruhr for the announced purpose of forcing Germany to pay long delayed reparations finds Europe dangerously near a social, economical and industrial abyss over the edge of which France and Belgium, with their burden of war trapping, have already disappeared, according to the views held in British official circles.

Stolid John Bull sits far to one side, immovable and almost unapproachable fourth member of the disrupted family, Italy, whose nervous efforts to bring about Franco-German mediation was a feature of developments in the European situation as viewed from London.

The Italian ambassador, who has just returned from home, has broached the question of mediation which if Britain initiates might terminate the war in Rhineland, but Mussolini's emissary has received no encouragement. This move is the latest evidence that the British government is convinced of the wisdom of the source it has taken in refusing to be associated in any way with the French determination to enforce the terms of the Versailles treaty at the point of the bayonet, without German consent being given another chance to pay after financial reforms have been instituted by Germany.

British officials assert that every card that France and Belgium have played in the Ruhr has been a losing one. They point out that the results thus far have been entirely negative, the only benefit being to give England increased orders for coal from Germany. At the same time it is admitted that there is still a remote possibility that the French might be right for it is remembered that Premier Poincare predicted that it would possibly be weeks before profitable results of the occupation policy were evident.

Howat Released From Jail After Parole Is Given

(By the Associated Press)

PITTSBURG, Kan., Jan. 20.—Alexander Howat, former president of district 14, United Mine Workers of America, and five of his colleagues who were members of the deposed district force, were released from the Crawford county jail today following a parole granted by Judge D. H. Wooley of the district court.

August Dorgy, former vice-president, John Fleming, James McIlwraith, Willard Titus and Earl Maxwell were the men released with Howat. The men have served 266 days of a years sentence for violation of a district court injunction prohibiting the calling of strikes.

FIFTY ARRESTS MADE IN DENVER BOOZE RAID

(By the Associated Press)

DENVER, Jan. 20.—Between fifty and sixty alleged bootleggers were in jail here tonight as a result of raids conducted by police today on more than forty establishments said to have been masquerading as soft drink stands, poolrooms, cigar stores, hotels and grocery stores. The raids which were carried out by more than one hundred patrolmen, were described by officers as the most complete clean-up of dry law violators in Colorado since prohibition became effective.

INDICT BANKERS ON MANY COUNTS

Muskogee Men Held on Count
Of Grand Larceny And Embezzlement.

(By the Associated Press)

MUSKOGEE, Jan. 20.—O. T. Thompson, president of the defunct Central State bank and Jesse A. DeWitt, a director, had each been indicted on more than a dozen counts by the district court grand jury tonight.

The indictment charged grand larceny, embezzlement and violation of the state banking laws.

The grand jury will make its final report tonight and the bankers notified that other indictments will be brought in.

Tompson and Dewitt were placed under arrest today after the first indictment had been returned.

Nine were against Dewitt, each charging grand larceny in that he borrowed money from the bank with "the intent to convert it to his own use." One of the indictments against Thompson charged grand larceny and the others embezzlement. The indictment charging embezzlement alleged that Thompson "stole, took and carried away from the money of the Central State bank two thousand dollars to convert to his own use."

District Judge Guy F. Nelson fixed their bonds at three thousand dollars on each indictment. Thompson made bail to the sum of $27,000 and Dewitt for $5,000. The court said tonight that it probably would not order their rearrests until Monday. The Central State bank was closed by the bank examiner last August.

Harrison Court Recesses After Strenuous Work

HARRISON, Ark., Jan. 20.—The "citizen's court", which has been questioning strikers on the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad here regarding alleged depredations along the road recessed tonight.

Recess was taken by the "court" after machinery had been set in motion for the complete organization of sub-committees at various towns along the railroad which can operate alone or convert upon call of the chairman general in a "committee of the whole."

Harrison assumed normalcy today in a business way for the first time since the trouble last Monday. Aside from white bandages displayed by some citizens there are few things to remind one of the strenuous week the town has just gone through.

Wally Plays Final Role With Death

Reid's Son Believes Dad
Off To Star In Play
In New "Location."

(By the Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—A throng numbering thousands late today, filed into the First Congregational church here and overflowed on the pavement in front of the edifice while funeral services were being held for Wallace Reid, screen star, who died here Thursday as a result of illness brought on, according to relatives, by his struggle to quit the use of narcotics. All day a line of men, women and children drawn from the ranks of film workers and admirers of the dead actor passed quietly before the bier where Reid's body lay, attired in one of his favorite suede sport suits.

The body of Wallace Reid, motion picture star, went to its final "location" today. That was the word used to explain his absence to his small son Billy, although the word has a different meaning in this case.

The boy believes his father to be out of town making pictures of something that could not be duplicated at the studio.

Billy, who is five years old, and Reid's adopted daughter Betty, did not attend their father's funeral. They were kept at play at home this afternoon while the last rites were performed for him.

The body lay in state from ten o'clock this morning to 2:30 this afternoon in St. Mary's Congregational church, not far from the center of the downtown district, seven miles from the Reid residence and from Hollywood district where he died.

The doors of the church were closed for an hour beginning at 2:30 and at 3:30 services were held by the Episcopal church and by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks lodge 99, of which he was a member. Reverend Neal Dodd, rector of St. Mary's of the Angels, read the Episcopal service. He is known as the "chaplain of the movies," and his church as Hollywood's "Little church around the corner."

Officials of the Elks gave the final of their order. Chief of Police Oaks had uniformed officers to handle the crowd around the church.

Active pallbearers included Benny Frazee, his chauffeur, William S. "Bill" Hart, Ed Brady, Noah Beery, William Montague, Eugene Pallett, Honorary pallbearers were Theodore Roberts, Jack Holt, Sam Wood, Conrad Nagel, Antonio Moreno, and Victor H. Clark, who will represent Jesse L. Lasky, director of the Famous Players Lasky coast studios, where Reid was employed.

PROBERS RECESS FOR SHORT REST

Mystery Still Surrounds Work
Of Examining Body After Week Investigation.

After a week of grim silence in the investigation of conditions in Pontotoc county, the grand jury called in session by District Judge J. W. Bolen at 9:45 Monday morning, recessed last Friday afternoon until Monday morning, when the hearing of witnesses summoned for the investigation will be resumed.

During the week of secret probing of affairs, between 125 and 150 witnesses were claimed from all corners of the county to appear before the selected twelve. Other witnesses will be summoned for testimony during the early part of next week, it is thought.

At the end of the week of grueling inquest, no definite information as to what matters have been brought before the jury in their secret session could be obtained. The much expected probe into the affairs of the city administration had not culminated, it was apparent, as none of the city officials had been summoned to appear before the grand jury.

A report of activities of the grand jury is not expected before the middle or latter part of next week, court officials maintain.

Further indications that the grand jury probe will go well into next week is seen in the fact that subpoenas for witnesses to appear Monday are now in the hands of the sheriff's office. Deliberations of the jury will necessarily consume some time after the testimony is all in.

Subpoenas continued to claim more rural residents than people of Ada. Approximately two-thirds of the summons served during the past week have been on residents outside the city of Ada, the sheriff's office reports.

The grand jury will resume their grind at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

USSAERY CONVICTION SUSTAINED BY COURT

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—The conviction of G. W. Ussary, 66 years old, for the killing of Whit Hyden at Ada in 1920, and his sentence to a term of ten years in the state penitentiary was affirmed today by a decision of the state criminal court of appeals.

In affirming the conviction Presiding Justice Matson wrote:

"The defendant has reached an advanced age. Prior to this homicide he had borne a good reputation as a law-abiding citizen, and it is extremely unfortunate that at such a period in his life he should be called upon to respond to the law's mandate. On the other hand, a human life has been taken without apparent justification or excuse, and a conviction for murder would have been sustained before us."

Ussary pleaded insanity in the trial of the case in which the charge was murder. Self-defense was also considered at the trial. The jury found him guilty of first degree manslaughter.

According to a review of the killing, contained in the decision handed down, Ussary killed Hyden with a shotgun, after Hyden, who it was noted, was an epileptic, had beaten a neighbor woman, Mrs. McBroom.

Rain Patters Down; Farmers Rejoice

Like a mirage to a desert traveler came the rain of Saturday to the farmer of Pontotoc county and also the establishment of a new long-drought record.

For 45 days Pontotoc county cast her eyes to the heavens and could see no rain clouds to replenish the fertility of the soil and open up prospects for early spring planting.

Old timers recall another period of drought in 1910 when the county suffered 44 days without rain.

Only .03 inch rain fall was registered Saturday.

DEATH TRUCK FOUND

Klan Blamed In Latest
Murder In Morehouse
Parish.

(By the Associated Press)

BASTROP, Jan. 20.—Efforts of the state of Louisiana through an open hearing to fix responsibility for the kidnapping of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards moved forward today with unexpected rapidity. Three more names were added to the list of alleged kidnappers and the truth in which Daniels and Richards were whisked away was identified.

Smith Stevenson and Oliver Spikworth, the latter the youngest son of Captain J. K. Spikworth, admitted leader of the Ku Klux Klan in Morehouse parish, and the third man was identified only as "black-smith" Smith, were declared by witnesses today to have been members of the kidnapping band and the state put in evidence a telegram from the state bureau of motor vehicles at Baton Rouge giving the name of the man registered as the owner of the truck.

The name of Captain Spikworth was also connected with the stirring events of the evening when one witness testified that he saw Klan leaders at the fork of the Monroe-Collinston highway in conversation with a hooded man. The captors and prisoners were last seen at Collinston.

H. B. Blankenship of Bastrop was the witness who identified young Spikworth, Stevenson and the truck and created one of the greatest sensations since the hearing got under way.

MONROE, Louisiana, Jan. 20.—Ku Klux Klan activities in Morehouse parish was the cause of the killing last night of John P. Parker Jr., of this town by Carey Calhoun of Bastrop, his cousin, according to evidence introduced at a corners inquest held here late today. The jury's verdict held that Parker came to his death by a gunshot wound inflicted in a scuffle with Calhoun. There were no recommendations.

Parker was formerly sheriff of the Ouachita parish and a captain in the Rainbow division in the world war.

BASTROP, Jan. 20.—H. E. Blankenship testified today that he had identified the truck bearing a Louisiana license tag number 74657 as the truck which he saw on Aug. 24 in which Watt Daniels was the prisoner of masked men. Blankenship said that he recognized two of the masked men as the son of Captain Spikworth, head of the Morehouse Ku Klux Klan, and Smith Stevenson.

BASTROP, Jan. 20.—T. Burnett, held on an affidavit charging murder in connection with the case of Watt Daniels and T. F. Richards, was released on bond of $5000 today, it has been officially announced.

Fisher Declares War On Hip Flasks

Festive brew is on the taboo at dances held in the City Hall.

Mayor Fisher declared in a statement Saturday morning that hip flasks would be barred at all dances held at the City Hall or the hall would be closed to the public.

Fisher complained that fruit jars and other containers had been found in the hall way.

Absolute proof that this practice would be abolished is necessary before public dances will be permitted, Fisher said.

Alice Tells 'Em Napkins Lead Astray

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Napkins have a way of disappearing where congressmen eat at the capitol just like they do in a restaurant out in Muskogee, Oklahoma.

Its just natural for the linen pieces to vanish from public eating places, Miss Alice Robertson, congresswoman from Oklahoma, told her colleagues today when the house got tangled up in debate about who was responsible for the vanishing of 150 dozen napkins in the house restaurant last year.

The matter was brought up during consideration of legislative appropriation bill after the science of auto suggestion had withstood a round of discussion.

Representative Blanton of Texas objected to the expense of the house restaurant and produced information that napkins to the number of 150 dozen had been used last year. This brought demands from various quarters as to how they disappeared and the debate promised to run on indefinitely when Miss "Alice" who used to operate a cafeteria in Muskogee, told the house members that napkins just had a way of disappearing and there was no use arguing further about it. That settled that.

NINE CASES GET COURT HEARING

Bolen Pushes Attorneys In
Cleaning Civil Docket
During Week.

The scales of justice have been accurately busy for the past week in district court before Judge J. W. Bolen in the hearing of jury cases docketed in regular session district court.

Nine cases have come before the court for decision in legal disputes, involving in several instances large sums of money.

District Judge J. W. Bolen, in an effort to clear the docket and dispose of many cases pending over from past terms of district court, has made rapid strides in settling matters to come before his court.

Early in the week Judge Bolen adopted stringent measures to avoid useless wrangling and further delay of trial of cases docketed.

Thirty jurors have been detained by the court during the week for service in the matters before the court.

Following are jury decisions in cases brought to trial for the week:

In the case of the Guaranty State bank vs. P. J. Brown, replevin, a find was made for the defendant for possession of the property sued for.

In the case of the Merchants and Planters National bank vs. T. C. Champion, et al, replevin, judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for possession.

In the case of W. J. Ricketts, et al vs. J. H. Davis, et al, recovery of money, verdict for defendants.

In the case of W. L. Williams vs. R. P. Ford, money due on note, foreclosure. Verdict for plaintiff for the sum of $380.40.

In the case of Mrs. N. A. Marshall vs. St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, damages. Judgment for $300.

In the case of the Consolidated Oil company vs. Harry L. Parsons, foreclosure. Judgment against defendant.

In the case of the Karges Furniture company vs. M. Levin, suit on account. Verdict for both, $46 to Karges Furniture company and $269.92 to M. Levin.

In the case of S. C. Collins vs. Petty C. Hobson et al, rescission of contract and recovery of land. Verdict for defendants.

In the case of Rice Stix Dry Goods company vs. William Weise, et al with Judge J. F. McKeel on the bench on agreement, verdict was given the plaintiff for the amount sued for.

OPERATORS HELD IN GRIM BATTLE IN RUHR VALLEY

German Workers Strike In
Ruhr Coal Regions As
Result Of Arrest.

BANK FUNDS SEIZED

Workers Continue Spirit Of
Non-Cooperation Toward
French Invaders

(By the Associated Press)

German industrial leaders in the Ruhr valley to the number of eighteen have been arrested for obstructing the occupation orders of the French. They were sent to French military headquarters at Mayence, where they will probably be placed on trial Monday. In consequence of this drastic action the occupation authorities are menaced with strikes of a far-spread nature. These are not likely to be confined to the mine workers but all classes in the Ruhr valley may cease work in sympathy.

Feelings already inflamed by the events of the past week, the workers are becoming further incensed by the arrest of the mine directors. They decided that they would not continue work while the directors are held.

During the ten days of occupation about 100,000 tons of requisitioned coal has been conveyed to France. Six coke ovens and four mines, all state owned, have been taken over and about ten billion marks in customs receipts and tax collections have been taken according to the French.

London appears to be watching the Ruhr proceedings anxiously and spokesmen of the government are not overly sanguine. The question of mediation by Great Britain as suggested by the Italian ambassador in behalf of his country has met with no response.

ESSEN, Jan. 20.—A grim game is being played by the French and Germans along the valleys of the Ruhr and Rhine. For every turn whereby French and Belgian occupation forces have registered a tactical or military advantage, the German residents carry out a new form of passive resistance.

The day was hectic with a succession of arrests of high German industrial and postal officials quickly followed with clocklike regularity by protest strikes of experts, manufacturing laborers and other employees, who struck doggedly by Berlin instructions to aid in powise the "invaders."

The workers council conferred with Lord Mayor Luther as to the advisability of calling out some of the five thousand postal telegraph and telephone workers in a general sympathetic strike but the decision is not to be announced until tomorrow. A large part of the forces at the various mines, whose directors were arrested responded almost immediately with protest strikes or ultimatums, which expire early next week. The French authorities have sent additional troops to guard the mines.

The people of Essen awoke this morning to find all the private banks in the city closed because a patrol had been placed over the Reichsbank and the personnel of these institutions refused to continue at their posts. Besides a number of small concerns there are twenty large banks in Essen.

Business men anticipate serious stoppage of trade in case the suspension of banking continues over the coming week. Essen's large banking institutions have unusually secure backing it is reliably stated and conduct many special dealings in stocks and bonds in addition to the usual cash bank transactions.

DUSSELDORF, Jan. 20.—With eighteen of their leading compatriots on the way to jail at Mayence the Germans are beginning to realize that the French are in earnest in carrying out their reparations policy in the Ruhr valley.

Despite the arrests, however, there is no sign of any intention by the Germans to recede from their program of non-cooperation and passive resistance to the occupation authorities.

The men in custody include state officials, industrial leaders, and capitalists. The conditions of

ABOUT FREE SPEECH

There are a great many persons who become greatly involved in their logic when they enter into a discussion of the rights under the guarantees of free speech. This includes some newspaper men.

The men who placed the first amendment in the constitution of the United States knew from experience the intolerance of one man for the opinion of another and of one group for the opinion of another.

After drafting the constitution to bind the several states in a perfect union, their first concern was the preservation of the right to reason and proclaim, in order that the truth might be found and the basis on which lasting political unity was to be built. The men who drafted our guarantee of free speech knew from experience the bitterness of intolerance at the hands of others.

Human nature has not greatly changed since 1791. Intolerance against the opinions of others is prevalent everywhere today, Kansas and Memphis, Tenn., have this year supplied the outstanding attacks against freedom of speech.

George Bernard Shaw has written a great defense of free speech in a single sentence that should have its place on every editorial room desk:

"Our whole theory of freedom of speech and opinion for all citizens rests, not on the assumption that everybody is right, but on the certainty that everybody is wrong on some point on which somebody else is right, so that there is a public danger in allowing anybody to go unheard."

Do not dismiss that sentence with a single reading—it is worthy of study. Many of us need that guidance, and especially when it is the other fellow's opinion that is being smothered under a wave of temporary intolerance.—Editor and Publisher.

The death of Wallace Reid, the noted motion picture star, ending a struggle to break the fetters of a drug habit, is only one of thousands that take place annually, but the prominence of the victim in this instance brings the matter home to the public with much more force than the death of one not so well known. The case was brought to the notice of the public sometime before the tragic ending and Reid was the recipient of all the sympathy that his admirers could give him in his struggle to conquer his habit and get a new hold on life. The drug addict presents a problem that is hard to solve. Of course no one ever deliberately started out with the intention of becoming a dope fiend, but weakly yielding to the lure of a soothing drug with its false inspiration, thinking that he could quit anytime he chose, the victim finds himself shackled with a habit that wrecks both mind and body and leaves only a shell of what was once a stalwart man. Slowly but surely the intellect is beclouded, reason is dethroned, suspicion enthroned, the sense of right and wrong is dulled until the victim finds himself all but helpless. As a rule this vice is indulged in so secretly that the world has little conception of its extent. All efforts to break up the traffic have failed so far, but now it is proposed to strike at the root of the evil by a treaty between the United States and Great Britain to curtail the production of opium in India. This offers a practical solution, but it remains to be seen what our former ally will do about it. If something tangible results from the wide publicity given the Reid case, that unfortunate young man will not have died in vain.

Boston is supposed to be the center of knowledge and culture, at least it poses thus, but an Oklahoma man who had occasion to make a trip to that place recently, reports that he inquired at every news stand in the city for an Oklahoma paper but was told that no papers published west of Pittsburgh were carried. This explains why those Easterners believe that Oklahoma is inhabited by barbarians and that there is no such thing as refinement outside of their own immediate sections.

The Germans are bucking about the French occupation of the Ruhr, but in view of the high handed measures employed by the Germans when they held French and Belgian territory the world will not take much stock in their whining. If the French have to use strong measures in dealing with some of the hard headed German leaders, they have some good precedents set by the Germans.

Many ideas on town building have been advanced, but no one has yet suggested that a town can amount to anything without a live chamber of commerce. It takes co-operation of all classes to build a real city and in no other way can this be brought about other than through a hustling organization of the citizenship.

The acquittal of the first five men accused of murder in connection with the Herrin massacre makes it certain that no further steps will be taken in the matter. Some of the critics of mob law in the South now have an example of a wholesale lynching at their own doors.

DEALING OUT "SANDWICH" WEATHER TO SUIT ALL TASTES

The Fortune of the Press

Speculation (Chicago Tribune)

The desire to get rich quickly has brought poverty to many. You cannot get something for nothing without taking the risk of getting nothing. Those who speculate should never do so with more money than they can afford to lose. More money is lost by speculation than is gained that way. Speculation is not a game for those of moderate means, for they cannot afford to lose. The speculator must be able to take a loss.

There are legitimate speculations and those which are not. With the former one stands to gain or lose. With the latter one stands small chance but to lose. In this class are included a vast number of wildcat promotions offered by unscrupulous salesmen. They usually offer extravagant returns that never materialize. Not only that, but the principal invested is usually lost as well, for it finds its way into the pocket of the promoter who is merely trying to enrich himself at the expense of the trusting public. He operates on the theory that "a fool and his money are soon parted," and he makes a living at it while those who "invest" with him are merely contributing to his support.

Then there are the bucket shops which fleece the investor even in legitimate or high grade securities by "bucketing" orders and juggling transactions and accounts these houses manage to turn into a loss any gains the client may be entitled to and his money is as good as gone as soon as they receive it.

Unless you can afford to lose, don't speculate. Put your money into some sound and seasoned security where the principal will be safe and a steady income assured. If you do speculate there are several things to remember: Use only funds which you can afford to lose—avoid schemes about which you know nothing except what the salesman tells you—suspect all extravagant claims—deal only through brokerage houses whose reputations are unquestioned—do not try to recoup a loss by drawing on funds which you cannot afford to lose.

The March Into Germany (Dearborn Independent)

Informed people are not surprised by France's march into Germany. The wonder is that it has been so long delayed after being so definitely fore-shadowed. But no one is well enough informed to see what the end shall be. France has determined to go it alone regardless of world opinion. She feels that the world does not understand her position and wilfully refuses to share her emotion, and she has, therefore, decided to make the best of the power she possesses to prove herself still to be a factor in world affairs. Any nation choosing that course could become a factor in world affairs. It means, as the trouble ostensibly between German and Turkey meant, that France is cutting loose from her allies.

The cause is simple: Germany has not delivered to France the amount of coal allotted to her under the reparation agreement. It is so simple that in America it is difficult to understand what it means. It means principally that with Germany herself suffering from a serious fuel shortage, German workmen revolt at the thought of digging coal the year round and sending it to France. There can be no question that, having rendered French mines useless by the scientifically fiendish devastation of war, Germany is bound to repay. But that is not the only element of the question. Of two men in a fight, the attacker should be compelled to make good, but if the attacker himself is in the hospital because of the wounds he received in his attack, there is also the question of ability to perform; and that is the situation in Europe. It does not settle anything to decide where justice lies, for it is a complex of injustice on all sides which human ingenuity has failed to untangle.

It all comes to this, probably, that the loom of fate is weaving the strands of further upsetment and disaster. The situation must be considered as a whole, and not as merely French or German, and of course, this is impossible for any European country to do. This incident may pass for the present without apparent result. It appears to have been diplomatically managed thus far. But in the future it spells the line up of a new Mediterranean alliance, with Poland, Rumania and Turkey certainly with France, a line across Southern Europe, broken only by the possible refusal of Italy to take part. And that most certainly means a visible preparation for another struggle.

Today it is possible to observe almost hour by hour a restless destiny setting the scene for the real Armageddon, the Last War, of which the Great War was the preparatory chapter. The Great War was fought by ill-assorted allies who normally would not have been allies. Now the natural allies will find each other, and not the least surprising element of the new alignment will probably be that Germany, perhaps separated from some of her present kingdoms, will be lined up with her former enemies of Britain and America. Rightly or wrongly, that seems to be the way the finger is pointing.

Plans Complete for Chamber Commerce Building at Tulsa

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 19.—A committee from the Tulsa chamber of commerce has been appointed to select a site in the business district for the location for a new chamber of commerce building planned to be erected here soon.

Charles B. Peters, president of the business men's organization announced this week all but $3,000 of the $75,000 budget to build the new home had been subscribed.

It is planned to erect a building cost approximately $75,000 and to raise the balance of the total cost by mortgaging the property.

The new building is planned to be a civic center, providing rooms for club meetings, and dining rooms for all civic clubs of the city. A large auditorium is also to be provided.

The chamber of commerce is now housed on the fourth floor of the city hall building in three small rooms, and other civic organizations have no permanent headquarters. The new building will be three or four stories in height, according to plans.

FROGS AND ADA HI SPLIT CAGER HONORS

Completing the first half of the city basketball league schedule, the Frogs defeated the News by a score of 33 to 15 and the Cubs nosed out a close victory over the guards with a score of 18 to 16, in the final games Friday night at the armory court.

The result of the Friday night games placed the Frogs and High school at a tie for first honors and the News at third place.

The Frogs and High school will play off the tie game at a later date.

The News slid over a defeat on the Cub team Saturday night in the opening game of the second half of the schedule by a score of 18 to 16.

The scheduled High school and Guard game was postponed Saturday night, the Guard team being out of the city on another matched game.

Ex-Service Men Of State Favor Bonus For Vets

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—Ex-service men in Oklahoma who are members of the American Legion are twenty to one in favor of some form of state bonus, according to Leon H. Brown, state adjutant of the legion.

Brown announced that a referendum of members of all legion posts in the state is under way on the question, and that replies have been received from about half the membership. He said that additional returns are not expected to change the showing.

In the form the referendum was submitted, Brown said, it allowed only for a vote as to whether the men favored any form of state compensation. He pointed out that no special recommendations as to the form of compensation were made in the vote call. He said that, with the mandate from legion members favoring a state bonus, the state executive committee, headed by Commander Dudley Monk, would prepare a bonus proposal or would adopt one prepared by some other authority. He said the committee has secured copies of bonus laws passed by other states and would study all such law before framing a proposal for Oklahoma.

ALLEGED SLAYER BROUGHT BACK TO WICHITA FALLS

(By the Associated Press)
WICHITA FALLS, Texas, Jan. 20.—Henry Toussaint, charged with the killing of his father, is again behind the bars of Wichita county jail. Deputy sheriff Jack Miller arrived today with the prisoner from Oklahoma City. Toussaint was arrested there following his escape from the jail here on January 10.

CRUEL LAW SENDS NEWLYWED TO JAIL

Joseph K. Gorman and his bride in their first post-nuptial soul kiss.

(By HARRY W. MEETER)
The game between Ada scouts of Troop No. 4 and 5 and the Konawa scouts was an exciting fight from start to finish as the teams were very evenly matched. The Konawa scouts came down Saturday night in cars. The game was cleanly played by the members of each team and the decisions of the referee of Konawa were satisfactory to each team. The game resulted in a victory for Ada, 26 to 23.

It was Sunday morning at one of our churches. This scout boy had been to Sunday school and then went home for his mother. They came to church together. I didn't see whether he opened the door for her or not but I really believe that he did. At any rate he came into the auditorium with her and found a seat for her and sat down beside her and worshipped with her in the same pew. That was an encouraging sight to behold, that scout coming into the church with his mother. There are other scouts in Ada who were in church we are sure and some of them came with their mothers and sat with them. Listen scouts you can't be at any better place than in church on Sunday morning, and we think that you can no do any finer thing than to come with your mother and sit with her during the hour of worship. "A scout is reverent." This is the twelfth law.

Monday evening we went to Maxwell with a radio concert. Mr. Presnal Sugg drove Mr. Syd Sachs car with Carl Spangler and the scout executive in it. Prof. Graham invited us over to organize a troop. This is the first community in this county so far, which has asked for the organization of a scout troop.

The concert given was one of the very finest, which we have ever given in this county. It took us just about one hour to get our aerial up and it all connected up and then we went to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Burns for supper which was a very fine one indeed. A big crowd came to hear the program and we were successful in getting enough money to register quite a large troop of scouts there. The following men will act as troop committeemen for the year: Messrs. E. E. Sutton, Alfred Summers, and Dr. S. L. Burns and the scout master will be Prof. Arthur S. Graham. With such a fine community as Maxwell is we are sure that the scout program will be put over very successfully.

Troop No. 7 went to Francis Tuesday to play the Francis scout team a game of basketball. It was a hard fought game but Ada scouts won 12 to 2. Francis scouts will come here for a game a little later. Troop No. 2 had about 20 scouts out to their meeting last week. Some scout tests were worked on. The following Ada scouts played Haskell Floyd, Morgan Carrol, Owen Izzard, N. T. Heard Jr., Bill Huddleston, Clarence P. Tis.

The scout executive, went to Roff, and Fitzhugh during the week having meetings with the scouts at these places. We will have about 26 scouts at Fitzhugh this year. Roff scouts will do well this year. Allen and Francis Scouts played a basketball game this week. Mr. Ralph Wanner, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has consented to take charge of troop No. 7 of Willard school and that will mean that this troop will have a fine coach for all athletic activities and in addition to that Mr. Wanner has had some experiences in scouting.

W. D. Little, editor of the News Mr. W. L. Whitaker and the scout executive went to Union Valley for a Father and Son get-together meeting Thursday evening. However we were some what disappointed in the crowd but it was not Mr. Jones or Mr. Riddle's fault, for we are sure that they had done their part to get us a crowd. Despite the fact that the crowd was small Mr. Little and Mr. Whitaker did their part well and interested the boys in what they had to say.

At Oakman, Friday, we had the pleasure of seeing seven boys take the Boy Scout promise and laws and join the organization. Mr. Lester Lillard is the scout master and he has made a fine start with the boys which we much appreciate.

Prof. A. S. Graham of Maxwell sent in the names of 17 new scouts who were enrolled Friday. We appreciate the fine cooperation of Mr. Graham and the troop committee out there.

The Physical Examination contest took place as scheduled at the First Presbyterian Church basement. Drs. McKeel, Dawson, McNew Laird, Granger and Webster conducted the examination and Messrs. H. E. Hamilton, R. T. Williamson, U. C. Dixon, W. P. Armstrong, B. E. Dawson, Jr., Tom Fullerton, Roy Meeks and Mayo McKeown acted as clerks. Only 45 scouts were present and only 39 took the examination due to the fact that there were so many other things on hand. The following scouts were the winners of the prizes given by The MacThwaite Oil & Gas Co. In the twelve year old class Weedel Bennett of troop No. 10, won first place, Harold Webster of troop No. 2, won second place, Lee Couch of troop No. 2 won third place. In the thirteen year old class, Farley Smith of troop No. 10 won first place, Joe Tom McKinley of troop No. 2 won second place, Ed Gwinn of troop No. 5, third place. In the fourteen year old class Leon Brown of Troop No. 4 won first place, Leroy Sawyer of troop No. 2 won

ADA HI WINNER IN DEBATE HERE

First Contest is Won From Stonewall; Musical Program Given.

In the first debate of the year held in the high school auditorium Friday evening, the Ada high school defeated Stonewall high in a spirited debate on the state question: Resolved; that foreign immigration to the United States should be further restricted.

The affirmative of the question was upheld by Stonewall in a very highly creditable manner. The Stonewall team consisted of Miss Evelyn Burris, Miss Abbey Williams, and Earnest Fuller.

The Ada high school, represented by one of the strongest teams the school has ever had, defended the negative side of the question. The Ada team, consisting of Joy Pegg, Fay Laird and Bob Naylor, have been working under the coaching of Prof. J. L. German, head of the english department in the high school. Their first battle was a creditable one, both to themselves and to their coach.

The judges were Superintendent A. Floyd and Messrs. Norris and Wood of the college faculty. Their decision was two to one in favor of the negative, represented by Ada.

Preceding the debate, a splendid musical program was rendered by the high school orchestra, under the supervision of Mr. Cudd, and the girls choruses, directed by Miss Inez Donaldson.

At the conclusion of the debate, Mrs. Charles Bobbitt, head of the home economics department of the high school, assisted by the girls of that department, served delightful refreshments consisting of hot chocolate and wafers.

Few patrons of the schools were out but there was a highly appreciative audience of high school folks present.

Man Slain by Posse After Killing Three Men on Texas Train

(By the Associated Press)
EL PASO, Jan. 20.—A man believed to be William Sprague of Paris, Missouri, who escaped from a Southern Pacific train near Lanark, New Mexico, early today after shooting Harry Turner, of El Paso and Herbert Brown of Indianola, Oklahoma to death and fatally wounding P. O. Cochran of Branson, Missouri, was killed late today near La Mesa, Mexico, by a posse headed by Sheriff of Las Cruces.

He was practically without clothes when killed, having discarded all his outer garments and shoes in flight. Officials expressed the belief that he was demented.

Any scout wishing to get his card which shows his standing in the physical examination contest can get it by coming to the scout headquarters at the chamber of commerce rooms.

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERS SEARCH FOR U. S. CLERK

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—Arnold C. Dolde, veteran clerk of the United States district court for Western Oklahoma, who disappeared three days ago while an audit of his accounts was in progress, today was removed from office in an order issued by Federal Judge John H. Cotteral.

Harry L. Findley of Norman was sworn in as Dolde's successor. The search for the missing clerk who was last seen in Shawnee early Thursday morning, was continued today by federal officers with officers of the United States bureau of investigation joining in the hunt.

Youth Killed by Truck.

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—Edwin Grim, five years old, was run over and killed instantly by a motor truck late today. Obie McAdams, driver of the truck was exonerated. Young Grim's death is the seventh resulting from automobile accidents here this year.

Chamber of Commerce History

The question is frequently asked: "What is a Chamber of Commerce? What is it like, and what does it do?" A question like this is not easily answered especially to the satisfaction of the type in commercial organization affairs. A brief answer to it, however, may be given by quoting from American Chambers of Commerce, by Kenneth Sturges, printed in 1915 by Moffat, Yard & Company where Chambers of Commerce are defined as "Bodies of local business and professional men, engaged in improving trade conditions, urging legislation beneficial to commerce and the social welfare, and most important, encouraging the growth and prosperity of their several communities." The author further states that in the United States the terms "Board of Trade," "Commercial Club" and "Chamber of Commerce" are synonymous. To these terms should be added "Board of Commerce Association."

The fairs and merchant guilds of mediaeval Europe are considered the actual prototypes of the modern Chamber of Commerce. Following the fairs of the twelfth century, came the merchant guilds which were developed during feudal times and which were the first private institutions formed to protect their members. With the disintegration of the guild system in the fifteenth century, Chambers of Commerce were evolved. The name was first applied to an association of merchants at Marseilles early in the fifteenth century, but which was not definitely organized until 1650. But the French chambers, as has also been the case, with associations in several European countries, were closely affiliated with the government. Of those chambers organized and conducted entirely independent of government affiliations, one of the very oldest in the world, and the oldest in America, is the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York, founded in 1768 in New York City. The second oldest in America is the Charleston Chamber of Commerce, founded in 1773. By 1801 Chambers had also been established in the United States at New Haven and Philadelphia.

Among the British Chambers of Commerce organized about this time are the Jersey Chamber of Commerce, 1769; Dublin, 1783; Leeds, 1785; Manchester, 1794, and Belfast, 1795. It is obvious that Chambers of Commerce had their origin in the earliest period of commercial history. As commerce has come to be in a large measure the great motive power that controls the action, the energy, and the ambitions of the world, it is natural that Chambers of Commerce should have an important institution in business affairs throughout the world.

Value of Organization. The value of organization among those having a common interest became so apparent during the World War period that the number of Chambers of Commerce and other commercial and trade organizations throughout the United States increased faster than ever before in a like period of time. The various economic interests and business groups organized because, for one reason, experience showed such action necessary, if the interest of that group or community were to be protected or improved. Another reason was, the impetus for forming associations during the war was accelerated by the United States government. First, in trades where no association existed the government, in some instances, pointed out some of the influential members of the industry, the value of an organization for securing better co-operation for that trade with the military authorities. The result was many new trade associations. Second, referring to Chambers of Commerce, the secretary of war said: "Commercial organizations would greatly assist the government in its work of organizing the country for self-defense if there were a militant Chamber of Commerce in every city of the Union. Efforts to organize such a vigorous and representative commercial body is a patriotic effort which all good citizens should aid."

Membership in Chamber of Commerce.

Membership in American associations in voluntary, and with a few exceptions open to all local citizens, firms or corporations in good standing. In the membership will be found the public spirited citizens, not only men, but frequently women, possessed of civic pride, representing every local element, following business or professional careers.

It is an established principle in the philosophy of civilization that an obligation rests upon all qualified men, as soon as a livelihood has been assured, to devote some of their ability to the common welfare. For applying their ability to the best advantage the Chamber of Commerce affords an important, and in many localities the only agency. It naturally follows that the majority of the very highest type of men in every community can be found in the membership of its commercial association. These men become members of Chambers which are voluntary service organizations, and pay the dues and expenses of membership, in order to have the privilege of serving their ability.

Functions and Activities. In times past a Chamber of Commerce largely served a small special interest or group in its community. Practically the entire attention of its paid secretaries was devoted to securing new industries for the city, additional transportation facilities, conventions, and various other trade benefits. In a few cities this still may be true of the commercial organizations. But generally throughout the United States the functions and purposes of a Chamber of Commerce have been radically changed.

It has today taken under its purview service to the entire community. It is devoted to making its city an attractive and satisfactory place to live. It covers in its activities, often to a major degree, matters of housing, transportation, recreation, health, education and other affairs of a broad, social welfare character.

At the same time, Chambers are today rendering more direct service than ever to their members. In practically all the larger cities, departments or bureaus are maintained with a paid executive in charge, occupied with providing valuable business information and assistance. Yet the principal keynote back of Chambers of Commerce today is an association organized not primarily to secure petty business advantages for individual members, but to furnish an organized opportunity to individuals, firms and groups of business men, to build up the highest type of commercial and industrial development for the benefit of every man, woman and child in the city.

A Chamber of Commerce usually combines in its activities questions of Production, Transportation, Industry, Commerce and Civics. Experience has shown that every community populous enough to support a Chamber is usually greatly benefited by the organization of such a body, for it provides leadership under which community progress can be accelerated and business and civic affairs built up upon a solid foundation. It is the logical central organization for community leadership, aiming both to promote and protect the commercial and industrial interests of the city as well as to improve the living conditions and social well-being.

American Chambers of Commerce have never had an official connection with the Government, as is common in Europe, and acts solely upon their own interpretation of what makes for the material and social advancement of their community.

A city's commercial organization, however, often acts in extending the hospitality of the city to distinguished visitors and commissions. This is a valuable service, which can be rendered on short notice and most satisfactorily.

Chamber of Commerce and Public Opinion

The Chamber of Commerce is the business man's agent through which he expresses his opinion on the public welfare. It offers at the same time, a practical and enlightened method for reaching a correct opinion through committee meetings, with their discussions, assembling of pertinent data, and frequent introduction of testimony from experts and specialists invited to appear before the committees, a sound procedure is provided for reaching correct conclusions. The individual, working alone, cannot attain such a high average of sound opinions as will be possible when his efforts are assisted by active membership in a Chamber of Commerce. Thus a Chamber of Commerce provides a local clearing house for the crystallization of well-thought-out community opinion on the subjects of local, state and national scope.

As public opinion is the most potent force in the world today, and has the power to make even the despots of autocracy eventually yield, those bearing the responsibilities of government in a democratic form of government naturally give careful attention to the opinions of Chambers of Commerce. One of the greatest difficulties of our officials is to gauge public opinions correctly; and the voices of the Chambers of Commerce throughout the United States furnish an important medium for determining the real sentiment of the electorate.

So it is that our Chambers of Commerce are important factors in determining the laws of the land. Members of legislative bodies take notice of the actions of local Chambers, particularly of organizations which have a reputation for reaching a conclusion only after a serious study and discussion of the subject before them, and which have a membership that actively participates in the reports adopted. It is natural that a Chamber of Commerce should have far greater power than the spasmodic efforts of an individual; for it represents organized collective action and speaks with the power and backing of the vital and responsible commercial interests of its city. It is the center where all the varied commercial interests of the city are concentrated. Its expression of views normally represent what it considers will be for the mutual benefit of the greatest number. Many lawmakers consider it part of the necessary business of a Chamber of Commerce to make manifest to the nation's legislators its desires.

Chambers of Commerce, however, as a class carefully avoid politics and party affiliations. It has been said that any organization which seeks to exert political power is a menace to our institutions unless it is organized as a political party. Therefore, the function of a Chamber of Commerce in this connection is merely to develop public sentiment, and then advance it on behalf or against proposed government measures. It is not ordinarily concerned with elections or political parties; though this might happen where well-established American institutions are attacked.

Stock and Business Promotion. For many generations the United States has suffered great economic losses yearly from promoters of fake securities and business undertakings. This economic loss injures commerce as surely as does fire, storms, war and other destructive agencies. It is as indefensible as the acts of the glaziers of London who threw stones through windows to make business for their trade.

Various states have passed laws from time to time designed to protect the innocent public from gold brick vendors, for in modern society the old principles of caveat emptor must be modified. Such laws however, can only partially accomplish their purpose, for swindlers quickly find methods to circumvent statutory regulations. The individual in earning his livelihood is subject to many vicissitudes through the natural ups and downs of business and movements of economic laws which are but slightly understood. It is indeed a shame that he should also suffer from the action of those who as promoters of fake securities and questionable business undertakings are wilfully trying to rob him of his earnings. During the last two or three years a movement has spread among Chambers of Commerce throughout the United States to protect their communities from these leeches. Illinois and Massachusetts under the auspices of their state Chamber have been especially active in this particular. Certain associations of a national character are also working to purify business and eliminate the crook and swindler. These associations are co-operating very closely with Chambers of Commerce.

Of course it is impossible for a Chamber of Commerce to protect its community completely from losses in fake business propositions, even though the fake business is being conducted in its immediate neighborhood. A great number of these propositions, for instance, are operated at first within the law, and their fraudulent intention are not known until after the frauds have been committed. When this happens the swindlers often decamp or if they are captured restitution is seldom possible.

The general public is getting in a way, however, of making inquiry of the Chamber of Commerce in the Community where stock and business promoters have their headquarters. Thus information regarding the movement or promoters is provided, and even though a Chamber does not care to supply information from its own offices, it is of great assistance in suppressing questionable undertakings by co-operating with national or local associations which are engaged solely in this work and are constantly reporting upon and examining into security promotions and business enterprises of uncertain reliability.

Former Railroad Conductor Points Out Way to Truce

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19. — Joe S. Cobb, of Shawnee, former railroad conductor recently appointed a member of the state corporation commission, sitting in a railroad case before the commission the day before he took the oath of office, pointed the way to a settlement of the case out of the funds of his personal knowledge of railway operations.

The town of Canadian petitioned the corporation commission to order the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad to install a crossing bell, and the road protested because the expense entailed would be more than $1,000 attorneys explained.

By a series of questions Cobb learned from the attorneys that there were six trains which passed through Canadian daily without stopping, and that five of them went through in haste when the agent was on duty. He suggested that the agent flag the crossing, and everybody admitted they had not thought of such a simple solution. Both parties agreed to adjourn the hearing and indicated a settlement would be effected, based on Cobb's suggestion.

Mrs. Duval reports some highly interesting club meetings during the past week. Monday the women's club of Galey met with Mrs. Will Boen with 18 present. Gardening, bread making and child care were the topic for discussion. The February meeting will be held with Mrs. Q. R. Bevers at which time the subject of poultry will be taken up. The women's club of Center met Tuesday with Mrs. A. G. Austell and a demonstration in making dress forms was given. About a dozen ladies were present. Wednesday the girls club of Rocky Chapel met with Mrs. B. A. Howard. The meeting was devoted to a lesson in sewing. Thursday the girls club of Homer and High Hill held their regular meetings and were given a lesson in sewing. Friday the women's club of Owl Creek met with Mrs. W. W. Murphy. The program consisted of a study in gardening. The hostess served delicious refreshments at the conclusion of the program. The February meeting will also be held at the Murphy home and will be devoted to the subject of poultry.

Agent Hill reports that much more ground than usual has been broken by the farmers of the county and that there has never been such a cleanup as is now in progress. The farmers are doing their best to head off another visitation by the boll weevils.

Agent Hill suggests that people should bear in mind that now is the time to transplant their blackberries and dewberries, prune their grapes and trees and apply the first spray to the fruit trees. At this time the lime and sulphur spray should be used.

According to all accounts the farmers of Pontotoc county are doing a great deal of terracing now. They realize the importance of saving their soil and are growing up terraces to hold it. This is an important matter and means a great deal to all concerned.

Now if anyone happens to be around the cream station on Saturday he sees a procession of wagons and other vehicles driving up with cargoes of cream. The checks received by the various individuals may not be very large and may not enable them to increase their bank deposits very fast, but in the aggregate they total up a tidy sum and keep the recipients from having to make notes at the bank and pay out a slice of their cotton receipts in the fall for interest.

Yost Declares Football is Essential Factor in Life Of American College Lads

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—American youths in too many homes of the nation live a life of luxury and spend too much time on the soft easy cushions of automobiles. In the opinion of Fielding H. Yost, coach of the University of Michigan, who today emphasized the value of football in developing "that unconquerable fighting spirit so badly needed in our American life."

Playing the popular college game will cultivate the qualities of determination, persistence and courage the veteran mentor declared, that can now be better learned than on the gridirons. Coach Yost believes that football, as well as other athletics, should remain a contributing factor of college training, as this sport will enable collegians to become better fitted for their careers.

"This is the one virile American game and it is needed badly in our American life," Coach Yost said. "The benefits are derived not only by the thousands who play the game, but by the many more thousands who witness these contests. Our boys in too many homes live a life of luxury and ease and spend too much of their time on the soft easy cushions of automobiles. What they need and must have to fit them as men—real men, are the very things which are taught and developed on the football field, a strong alert body, a keen, quick thinking mind and that unconquerable fighting spirit which overcomes all obstacles in the end."

"Athletic games are generally recognized as a necessary part of our national school and college life. The critics of college athletics, especially football, suggest that we should have less football, or none at all, and promote athletics for everyone. What have these men done and what are their experiences in establishing, financing and putting across such a voluntary program? Those in charge of intercollegiate athletics, through the funds obtained largely from football, have financed and developed a broad intercollegiate and intramural athletic program, based on voluntary participation."

"Boys go to college to obtain a better education and to become better fitted for life. Football, as other athletic activities, is, and should ever remain, a contributory factor to this main object of college training. It should not be made an end in itself for then it loses much of the ordinary benefit that is usually derived from it. This difficulty can be eliminated by arranging schedules so as to cause players to miss as few classes as possible, by limiting the length of practice periods and by seeing that the schedule of the season does not extend over too long a period of time. All football schedules should close by Thanksgiving Day. At the same time these boys will learn to sacrifice themselves to a group or institution for the attainment of a common goal, which means that they will learn cooperation, team play, loyalty and service. Likewise, they will cultivate the qualities of determination, will power, persistence and courage, both moral and physical."

"Even those who do not participate learn the lessons of service and loyalty which permeates the student atmosphere as a result of football."

APPELLATE COURT AFFIRMS CONVICTION OF NORTHCUTT

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—The state criminal court of appeals affirmed the conviction of John Northcutt, of Okmulgee, charged with the murder of Jim Lawrence Nov. 23, 1919, and approved the sentence of a life term in the state penitentiary, in a decision handed down today.

Northcutt pleaded self-defense at the trial at Okmulgee in the superior court in May, 1920. Judgement was pronounced May 17, 1920. It was alleged he killed Lawrence after an argument on a country road near the town of Kusa.

HEARD ABOUT OLIVER?

Neither had I until Manager Jack Miller of the San Francisco Pacific Coast League club unburdened himself the other day regarding the lad.

Last name's Mitchell and he's a southpaw pitcher. Miller says, to start with, that Oliver is the best pitcher he has on his team right now. Which is a good start.

Mitchell's work last year indicates he is a comer. He won 26 games and lost 7 for the Frisco club last year and in three of the seven games he lost his teammates failed to score a run behind him.

Mitchell is only 22. Coast League fans say that he has the pitching style of Slim Sallee—that easy going way which makes the batter swear he hasn't got a thing—while they're fanning the ozone with their bulldozers.

Why the big league scouts grabbed Jimmy O'Connell, Willie Kamm, and even two pitchers, Walbery and Kunz and passed up Mitchell is a mystery to him, Miller says.

Miller is too old a hand to rave idly about a player so we may hear more about Mr. Mitchell, first name Oliver.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Angeline Was Right, Whether She Meant It or Not

THE ILLUSTRIOUS HERO OF THE SOUTH

Robert E. Lee, Born Jan. 19, 1807
There is no day in all the year that so appeals to the heart of the South as that on which was born the great Confederate Chief. Its annual return recalls to all true Southerners sad, sacred yet proud historic memories that will never die. And every American north, as well as south may well rejoice that such a grand character was born, lived and died on American soil. The influence of whose life is the heritage of all the world, for succeeding ages.

Well did the London Standard say on his death: "A county which has given birth to men like him, and those who followed him, may look the chivalry of Europe in the face without shame; for the fatherlands of Sidney and of Bayard never produced a nobler soldier, gentleman, and Christian than General Robert Edward Lee."

This illustrious man was born at Stratford, Westmoreland county, Virginia, January 19, 1807. Of pure Norman blood, the long line of the Lees may be traced back to a certain Launcelot T. Lee of London, in France, who accompanied William the Conqueror upon his expedition to England, and after the battle of Hastings, was rewarded for his services by an estate in Essex. From that memorable gate the name Lee occurs continually and honorably in English annals. There is Lionel Lee who fought by Coeur de Lion's side in Palestine, and who for his gallantry at Acre and in other battles with the infidel was on his return home made the first Earl of Litchfield, and presented by the King with the estate of Ditchley. Subsequently held as all the readers of Walter Scott must remember by that indomitable old knight, Sir Henry Lee, who figures so conspicuously in Woodstock.

Then comes Richard Lee, who accompanied the unfortunate Earl of Surrey against the Scotch borders in 1542. Two of the family were Knights of the Garter, and so distinguished themselves as to have their banners suspended in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, with the Lee coat of arms emblazoned thereon, and the significant family motto, "Non inuentus futuri." Coming down to the time of the first Charles, we find the Lees in Shropshire, all staunch cavaliers. Then it was that the accomplished Richard Lee came over to the colony of Virginia as secretary of the King's privy council. He is described as "a man of good stature, comely, visage, enterprising genius, a sound head, and generous nature." Words we may apply literally to the person and character of his world-renowned descendant. With this gentleman the noble stock of the Virginia Lee's originated.

Thomas Lee, grandson of Richard, was president of the Colonial Council, and governor of Virginia. The first man of American birth named to this post by the English government. Three of his sons played a remarkable part in the war of Independence: Richard Henry Lee, the great orator and debator in the American congress; Francis Lightfoot Lee, signer of the Declaration of Independence; and Arthur Lee, who represented in France, and elsewhere the colonial insurgents.

General Henry Lee, the father of Robert Lee, was a grandson of a brother of President Lee, was an intimate friend of Washington, served with great distinction as a cavalry leader through the Revolution and became famous as "Light Horse Henry." He married Anne Hill Carter, daughter of Charles Carter of Shirley on the James, of which union Robert E. Lee was the third son. After the Revolution, Henry Lee was elected governor of Virginia. His memories of the war in the southern department is a work of historic value detailing the services of his cavalry legion.

After classical and mathematical training Robert E. Lee entered West Point in 1825, graduated in 1829, was assigned to duty in the U. S. regular army as second lieutenant of Engineers; married in 1832 Mary Curtis daughter of G. W. Parke Curtis, the adopted son of General Washington; served in Mexican war as chief engineer of Scott's army; was superintendent of West Point 1852-55; appointed Colonel of cavalry, March 1861, but resigned April 29, to offer his services to his native state that had seceded and finally was commander in chief of the Confederate armies, surrendering at Appomattox, April 9, 1865. "He who led those armies against invaders retired from the unequal contest defeated but not dishonored; the noble Virginian soldier, whose talents and virtues place him by the side of the best and finest man who sat on the throne of the Imperial Caesars."

Refusing all gifts of houses, estates and money, offered him here and in Europe, and declining positions of princely salary, he accepted in the summer of 1865, the presidency of Washington college (now Washington and Lee University) Lexington, Va., having resolved to consecrate the remainder of his life to the great work of training the youth of the land he had loved and served so well. Thus again illustrating the precept that had moulded his own character, that "Duty is the noblest word in the English language."

His college work as president was eminently successful, but in the midst of his labors God called him and he entered into eternal rest at Lexington, October 12, 1870, and his memories were interred in the college chapel, where they still rest.

Transcendent as was his military genius, ranking him among the greatest captains of the world, it was as a man that he was truly great, for he possessed all those virtues and graces which dignify and adorn human nature, and which are essential to moral grandeur and sublimity of character.

A few personal details of the general during the war may not be out of place. In spite of the reserved air which seldom left him, Lee received with kindness the humblest of his soldiers. Naturally very simple in his manners, and kind, endowed with great sweetness and much patience, he made no difference in his fashion of receiving those of all ranks who came to him. He used to say that the common soldier, who fought without the allurements of rank, pay, glory, but only from a sense of duty and love of country, were the most deserving class in the army, and had a right to the utmost consideration and best treatment. This extreme simplicity of life and manners rendered him peculiarly dear to the troops.

The inside of his tent, which he would never leave for the shelter of a house, although often entreated to do so, afforded no object of luxury. The covering of the commander-in-chief was the same as that of the soldier, and his food often inferior to that of the majority of his officers and men.

Everywhere he was presented with dainties, cases packed with turkeys, hams, wines, spirits, cakes, etc., very tempting to the life of a soldier; he sent them nearly always to the sick and wounded. His guiding principle was to set his officers an example of not faring better than their soldiers.

For the rest to lie hard, to eat little, to drink only water, were not to him privations. It was the life he had led for years on the frontiers of Texas and Mexico. He liked neither wine nor spirits, and made no use of tobacco in any form; rarely allowed himself a moment relaxation. When not inspecting his camp to see if the troops needed anything, or when not visiting the outposts, he was in his tent at work, going through reports, corresponding with the authorities at Richmond and occupying himself with all that touched the well being of the army under his orders.

Sometimes if near country houses, he would pay a visit to the ladies, and caress the children, thus revealing an unexpected side to his character. His goodness, sweetness, and affectionate smile, singularly attracted children, and inspired them with a touching confidence. One day a little girl, near Fredericksburg, confided to him as to her best friend, trembling all the while, that she would like to kiss general Jackson. The brave Stonewall blushed like a young girl, when Lee with a mischievous smile told him of the child's wish. In such a moment Lee was charming. The pleasure he felt was true and unalloyed; he forgot himself, and it was difficult to believe that this officer, in a simple gray uniform, so affectionate and child-like, was the commander of the great Confederate army.

The most beautiful and interesting feature of his character, was his humble and profound piety. But that must be the subject of another article.

Featuring in one continuous reel, Humpy Smith's interpretation "A rag, a hank of hair and a bone" proved the success of another dance held over the city jail.

Because of the limited space and numerous window openings, Humpy was restricted to only anaesthetic dances and did not extend his talent to osteopathic demonstrations.

Regardless of his tender attitude toward the dance, 496 hairpins, 12 shoe heels, and various and sundry articles of ladies haberdashery were found the morning after by the janitor.

An elderly lady after travelling 12 miles over a rough road in a rickety farm wagon approached a clerk in one of the dry goods establishments of the city and asked to see Humpy Smith, maintaining that that individual should be placarded in order to bear out distinction.

A popular debutante after dancing two minutes after the music stopped, suggested that "Beans" Levin be charged an additional fee for all dances for his lingering habits.

What a royal plant it is! The world waits in attendance on its growth. The shower that falls whispering on its leaves is heard around the earth. The sun that shines on it is tempered by the prayers of all people. The frost that chills it and the dew that descends from the stars are noted, and the trespass of a little worm on its green leaf is more to England than the advance of the Russian army on her Asian outposts. It is sold from the instant it puts forth its tiny shoot. Its fibre is current in every bank, and when loosing its fleeces to the sun, it floats a sunny banner that glorifies the field of the humble farmer; that man is marshalled under a flag that will compel the allegiance of the world, and wring a subsidy from every nation on earth. It is the heritage that God gave to this people forever as their own when he arched our skies, established our mountains, girt us about with the ocean, loosed the breezes, tempered the sunshine, and measured the rain. Ours and our children's forever. As princely a talent as ever came from His hand to mortal stewardship.—From an address by the late Henry W. Grady, of Georgia.

With Mrs. E. A. MacMillan.
The Junior Music Study club met with Mrs. E. A. MacMillan at her home, 609 East Twelfth street Saturday afternoon. Piano solos were given by Louise Lane, Mattie McNew and Opal Wilmoth. A violin solo was rendered by Alpha Emery, her sister Geneva accompanying.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served. The officers of this club are Opal Wilmoth, president, Mattie McNew, secretary. Meetings are held monthly.

MUSIC LOVERS SHOULD HEAR

NOTED PIANIST IN RECITAL
The music lovers of Oklahoma will have a rare treat when they journey to Oklahoma City Saturday February 10, to hear the world-renowned and much loved Paderewski, the great Polish pianist. Every student of the pianoforte should make an effort to hear him on this trip to the state. It will be not only an inspiration but an education to see his great technical ability and hear his wonderful interpretation of the composition of the master composers.

SORORITY ACTIVITIES

FOR THE WEEK
The opening of the new semester at the East Central State Teachers College was accompanied by a number of sorority rush parties given by the Upsilon Chapter of Sigma Sigma, Sigma, sorority during the past week. A formal rush party met Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Blake, Jr., 295 South Broadway and a welcome roast at the Country Club Lake were the most enjoyable events. Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock bids were given and accepted by the following out of town girls: Helen Baker, Madalyn Seawell, Mary Brown and Elizabeth Hyden after which a very pleasant social hour was spent at the home of Miss Reed Loving Watt, 821 Ninth street.

RUSH WEEK ENDS SOCIAL

WHILE WITH PI KAPPA SIGMA
The past week has been rush week for the Pi Kappa Sigma sorority in which pledges to the sorority were secured. On Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock the members of the sorority held a campfire supper at the home of Mrs. Burton on Seventeenth and Broadway for the basketball teams of Alva and Ada colleges. Following the game Tuesday evening a dance was given at Mrs. Burton's residence for the two teams. On Thursday evening the sorority gave a line party at the McSwain theatre.

The members of the sorority entertained the Frogs, the college pep organization, at Mrs. Burton's residence Saturday evening.

Refreshments were served to the following: Margaret Parker, Kath-

FRIDAY NIGHT BRIDGE CLUB

ENTERTAINED WITH DINNER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Haney, Jr., at 520 East Ninth street was the scene of a merry party Friday evening when the six members, who had made low score for the season entertained with a beautifully appointed dinner honoring the members making high scores and Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Norris, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Simpson, and Miss Givens as guest. The hosts and hostesses were Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Whit Fouten, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Boscan, Mr. and Mrs. Ben McKinley and Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Haney, Jr. Honor members were Mr. and Mrs. Byron Sledge, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr, and Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Cummings. The evening was spent at bridge. Pot plants of blooming cacti were presented the invited guests.

CHILDREN'S PARTY

HONORING SON

Mrs. C. A. Gay, 501 East Fourteenth street entertained a number of little folk Tuesday afternoon honoring the fifth birthday of her son, Raymond. All sorts of games interesting to children, were played among which was the "Donkey Canoe." The prizes were won by Norretta Arnett and Carl Henry. After the games refreshments were served.

Raymond received many pretty gifts from the following little friends: Florence Pulliam, Raymond Dixon, Ayre Keltner, Phillip Abney, Carl Henry, Lorretta Arnett, Mary Frances Holmes, Douglas Edwards, Homer Hensler, Jr., W. J. Hughes, Jr., Edwin Hughes, Katherine Jackson, Benna Russell, C. H. Russell, Andre Duncan, Jr., and Frances Jean Duncan.

After the party pictures were made of the little folks. Mrs. Gray was assisted in serving by Mesdames Berne Nance, A. R. Dixon, Andre Duncan, Hester McSwain and W. B. Gay.

COMMUNITY CHORAL CLUB

TO SING AT LECTURES

Members of the Community Choral club, who gathered for rehearsal Friday night were grieved to learn that Mr. Cooke could not be present on account of illness. Mr. Cooke contracted a severe cold the last night that he was here and has been confined to his bed all week. He sends the message that he is getting along nicely and hopes to be with us at next rehearsal. Parts were given out and practice work was directed by Mrs. Norrell. An invitation was extended the choral club to sing at the First Methodist church next Friday evening at the lecture to be given by Col. Dan Morgan Smith, commander "The Tallyon of Death." Subject: "The World's War and the Fields of France." Rehearsal will begin at seven o'clock and the club go in a body to the church at eight o'clock. The Community Choral club was organized with the purpose of taking part in just such gatherings as this and it is hoped that 100 voices will gather to sing the patriotic songs, "America," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Onward Christian Soldiers." Let us make the membership 100 percent patriotic next Friday night.

CELEBRATES EIGHTY-THIRD BIRTHDAY

In honor of her mother, Mrs. Anne St. Clair, Mrs. W. C. Duncan invited a most cordial in for noon dinner, Monday.

They were most cordially welcomed by Mrs. St. Clair and when invited into the dining room by the former's granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Duncan, each guest exclaimed with pleasure at the sight of 83 pink tapers burning on the birthday cake, which in a surrounding bank of greenery formed the centerpiece on the dining table.

Seated about the table with Mrs. St. Clair were Mr. and Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Blinn, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cox, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Nethery. These guests were graciously served by the charming daughter of the house, Miss Dorothy.

Mrs. St. Clair, who was born in Florida is a typical southerner and on this occasion the conversation became more or less reminiscent. These reminiscences covering many interesting and well spent years.

Mrs. St. Clair was quite active in knitting and ministering to the soldiers of the world war, as well as to those of our Civil war. Not only did she knit for her four stalwart grandsons, who saw service both here and overseas, but for every mother's son that her strength and time could serve.

It was a delight to see the pleasure she derived from her many remembrances, of letters, telegrams, and gifts. Pleasant conversation continued into the afternoon and each guest derived inspiration far an effort at better living and higher thinking and in departing so sincerely showered Mrs. St. Clair with love and good wishes for other happy birthdays.

POPULAR MELODRAMA

NOW ON THE SCREEN

Kentucky, home of mint, julep aristocracy, beautiful women, thoroughbred horses and magnificent scenery.

The Pacific Ocean, romantic, tyrannic and historic, grave of hopes and born of idle dreams. These two were the "Locations" Universal chose in filming "The Kentucky Derby" the Universal-Jewell special which will be shown at the McSwain theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

The story of the "The Kentucky Derby" is based on "The Suburban" a stage play which thousands remember today, though it was presented twenty years ago for the first time. Charles T. Dazey wrote it.

Universal assigned King Baggot to direct it immediately after he had made "Human Hearts" the country life picture now enjoying popularity on American screens. Baggot chose Reginald Denney, Universal's star of "The Leather Pushers," as the best type for the leading male role.

Lillian Rich will be seen opposite Denney as a daughter of a stableman, brought by education and culture into the very heart of the mint julep aristocracy of the Blue Grass state.

Lionel Belmore, Emmett King, Gertrude Astor, Kingie Benedict, Harry Carter, Bert Tracy, Bert Woodruff, Walter McGrail, Wilfred Lewis, Pat Hermon, Verne Winter and Anna Hernandez are other members of the all star cast.

Romantic variety and breath of scale is promised, the action switching from Kentucky to New York and then to the high seas and the China coast.

BOUQUET FOR CONN

ROACH, ADA ATHLETE

He has often been referred to as "that fast little back from Ada." Last year he was a member of the football squad, but because he was ineligible, he did not make the team. But this year he was one of the strongest members of the "Golden Hurricane" and helped to gather in the glorious victories of which Tulsa University is so justly proud. He is an able field general, as well as a shifty runner with the ball. Having played football at Ada for some time, he entered the Tulsa University a year ago this past fall, and since has been a loyal booster for the school.

Conn Roach is an able infielder at baseball, and looms as one of the big men in the team for '23. He is a member of the T. Club, having earned his letter in football this fall. Conn is Treasurer of the recently organized "Boosters' Club" as well as being chairman of the Student Athletic Committee.

A Phi Delta of high standing, Conn is also a member of the Geology Club, and is much interested in that line of work.

Last year he was a valuable addition to the Kendallabrum staff as assistant business manager, working with manager Balcolm.

A senior this year, Conn has worked hard throughout the year and earned his graduation.—Collegian.

High School News

"Professor Pepp," a modern drama, containing much humor, will be rendered by the dramatic talent of the two public speaking clubs of the high school, next Friday evening on the Teachers college stage, beginning at eight o'clock. Miss Nicholson and Mr. O'Connell are directing the rehearsals, and the fine talent of the student body gives promise of a splendid program.

Outraged Farmer Shoots Banker And Kills Pursuer

(By the Associated Press)

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Jan. 20.—Clifford C. Gram, prominent banker and Jeff E. Lowe, prominent drainage engineer worker, both residents of Beardstown, Illinois, were shot and instantly killed in this city tonight by Oro C. Braden, a farmer.

The trouble is said to have started over a mortgage held by a bank of Beardstown of which Gram was cashier on a farm owned by Braden. After shooting Gram, Braden was pursued by Lowe who caught him and in the struggle which followed Braden shot Lowe in the back of the head, killing him instantly.

The average year's Pacific coast hop yield is 200,000 bales.

STATUTORY CHARGE UPHOLD BY APPELLATE COURT

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—Albert Clark, convicted of a statutory offense in the district court of Coal county May 17, 1920, and sentenced to a term of ten years in the penitentiary, will serve his time, since the state criminal court of appeals affirmed the conviction in a decision handed down today. It was noted that Clark had filed no brief with his appeal.

CHURCHES

First Baptist Church

Our Sunday school is getting back to normalcy again. We had 435 present at the church and 94 at the mission, making a total in all of 529. We hope to see an attendance at both places of above six hundred in the near future.

The Men's Bible Class is also growing some. Every man in town who is not already attending Sunday school elsewhere is urged to attend there. Mr. Ellison is the teacher and you will greatly enjoy hearing him.

The morning service at the church begins at 11 o'clock. The choir will be under the direction of Mr. Longly Fentem. The pastor will preach at that hour on the subject, "The Friends of Jesus."

The B. Y. P. U. will all meet at 6:30. These organizations are doing a wonderful work and giving the young people training that they cannot get anywhere else. All young people invited.

The Sunbeams will meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. W. W. O'Neal in charge.

The evening service will begin at 7:30. We emphasize congregational singing at all our services but especially at the evening hour. The pastor will preach on the subject, "Freedom from Slavery." An urgent appeal will be made for the unsaved to accept Christ Jesus the Lord. Our crowds have taxed the capacity of the building. Young people attend the services in a gratifying way. We hope to see you present.—Clyde Calhoun Morris, pastor.

WETUMKA FIELD SHOWING GROWTH

Extensive Drilling and Natural Resources to Aid City Expansion.

WETUMKA, Okla., Jan. 20.—(Special to the News.)—With a daily production of 3,500 barrels of 42 gravity oil and 300,000,000 feet of gas per day, Wetumka is taking large strides toward becoming a very prosperous and enterprising city.

The larger oil companies hold the principle interests in the Wetumka field, and are promoting their interests on larger scales. The Prairie Oil & Gas Company have located a very complete and extensive pipe and machine yards close to the field and have purchased a city block and at the present time are building a Frisco switch through the entire length. The following companies have been allotted locations on the Frisco right-of-way and are awaiting the final approval of the Frisco authorities: National Supply Co., Sutherland Lumber Co., Oklahoma Tool & Supply Co., Frick Reid Supply Co., Republic Supply Co., Black, Sivalis & Bryson Tank Co., and Pickering Lumber Co.

In addition to these the Oil Well Supply Co., Western Supply Co., Beggs Machine & Supply Co., Parkersburg Rig & Reel Co., have locations about the city while the Muskogee Tool Co., Acme Tool & Supply Co., Sutherland Lumber Co., McIntosh Lumber Co., Billington Lumber Co., and the Weletka Lumber Co., have their buildings up and are doing a very good business. Many authorities have compared the Wetumka pool with the Cushing field and are banking on extensive operations all around the city.

In addition to Wetumka's oil prospects, the city's location makes it first class trading center the year around. It is located in one of the most productive agricultural sections of the country. The fact that there are five large cotton gins, twelve retail merchandise stores and three National banks with yearly deposits of one and one-half million dollars, serves as a barometer of the value of Wetumka as a trading center; however, the city is greatly in need of a creamery, laundry and a large modern hotel. These are to come with time.

The Wetumka chamber of commerce has been active for several years and at the present time J. L. Walther is employed as a permanent secretary. The third Wednesday of each month has been designated as trades day and the farmers gather from miles around to take advantage of the special bargains offered by the merchants. Wetumka has the honor of holding the first trades day in this section of the state. In addition to the weekly meetings held by the chamber of commerce, the leading merchants gather each Wednesday for a turkey dinner and smoker, and are negotiating plans for the organization of a Kiwanis club.

Wetumka has three ward schools, and a new $70,000 high school now under construction. A large addition to the city has been made on the east and nearly all of the lots have been sold for residences. Due to the large amount of gas around the city it is expected that industries of various kinds will awaken to the fact that it would make a profitable location, especially, the glass factories as the sand in this vicinity contains a high percentage of quartz.

All the facts go to show that

START WORK ON SPAVINAW DAM

High Pressure Reservoir is
Started; Project to Cost
$6,000,000.

(By the Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 19.—Actual construction work is in progress at several places on the $6,000,000 project that will bring water from the Spavinaw river in Mayes county to this city. Pipe is being laid from the high pressure reservoir site on a high hill north of the city limits to the pumping station and the city mains. This pipe is 36 inches in diameter and is made of cast iron.

The high pressure reservoir will be one of the first units of the project to be completed, and it is planned to put it in use in connection with the present system at once. The connection with the present pumping and filtration station on the Arkansas river bank, where water is now obtained, will make it possible for Arkansas river water to be pumped into the 10,000,000 gallon reservoir from the river. The height of the reservoir will furnish the necessary pressure.

While it is not expected that it will be necessary to filter the Spavinaw water, the connection with the filtration plant will make that possible should it become necessary at any season of the year, according to the engineers.

Work is now completed on the 500,000-gallon storage reservoir at Mohawk which is located four miles from Tulsa. Water from Spavinaw creek 55 miles away will flow by gravity to Mohawk. It will be pumped into the high pressure reservoir and distributed from that point to the city mains. Flat Rock creek has already been diverted into Bird creek at Mohawk.

Other points where work is in progress include Tiawah, where a tunnel over a mile long is being excavated, several places along the line where aqueducts are being built and at Spavinaw where a large crew of workers is clearing the bed of the proposed lake. Work is scheduled to begin on the dam soon, it was announced.

Nesbitt Flays Marketing of Road Bonds on Future Construction Proposition

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19.—County commissioners should not sell road bonds until construction work is ready to start and no commission should be paid for the sale of the bonds, according to the recommendations contained in a letter from Paul Nesbitt, commissioner of highways to Gov. J. C. Walton, made public today.

Nesbitt recommended in his letter that the legislature be asked to pass laws to effect the reform he proposed.

Nesbitt said that road bonds are sold sometimes two years in advance of the need for the money and that bonds usually draw five percent interest. He pointed out further that in many instances the money is loaned back to the taxpayers at ten per cent interest, for the use of their own money.

Attacking the practice of selling county bonds through brokers which charge commissions while their "entire investment is in office and office furniture," Nesbitt recommended in his letter that the state should provide an agency through which bonds could be sold without commissions.

"I take this view of it for the same reason that I believe the cotton broker and the grain broker is not essential to the marketing of farm products, and that his profits come off the producers," Nesbitt wrote.

"The people who pay the taxes on the bonds that are issued are due the same protection from those who pay nothing, have nothing invested and reap splendid returns for commission work."

Taking up the question of the sale of bonds in advance of the time construction is to begin, the highway commissioner wrote:

"It has come to my attention that where bonds are sold for road construction in various counties, pressure is brought to bear to have the county commissioners sell the bonds immediately. These bonds draw interest usually at five percent. The money is placed in the local banks and lies there until construction work begins. In some of the counties of this state construction work has not begun for two years after the bonds were sold. In the meantime the money is being loaned back to the taxpayers at ten percent."

"To state the case concisely: The taxpayers are paying five percent on the bonds and their own money is being loaned back to them at ten percent, making a total of fifteen percent per annum on the bond money for which they are not receiving anything in return."

"Road construction bonds should not be sold until the state engineer has completed the plans and is ready to receive bids, and a law should be passed making it mandatory upon the county commissioners not to sell any bonds for such road construction until notified to do so by the highway department."

"Another matter that I think should receive the attention of the legislature is that of selling bonds through the agency of bond brokers. It seems to be the practice for bond buyers representing eastern concerns to buy these construction bonds. They apparently do not invest a dollar of their own money and their entire investment is in office and office furniture. Their commission naturally comes out of the sale of the bonds and where counties issue large amounts these commissions run into thousands of dollars."

OKLAHOMA CITY.—A toll bridge over a small stream between Idabel and Broken Bow, in McCurtain county, was tentatively assessed by the state board of equalization this week at $6,000, and the assessment made retroactive for six years in which the bridge has not been taxed it was announced. It was declared at the meeting that the bridge has been paying an average of 20 percent on an investment of $10,000.

LUTE DOUGE WRITES TO POULTRY BREEDERS

Well, poultry folks, I am a little slow about it, but I want to thank you for helping to make one of the best, fact is, it was the best show that has ever been held in Pontotoc county and I am quite proud of it. Now as that is past history let's begin right now and get ready for the next one, and make it bigger and better than our past one. We had several new exhibitors this time and I was glad to see them, as we old "roosters" had really got tired of "scratching" together, and no new birds to help us. One thing I am particularly pleased about is that every one seemed to be in a good humor and satisfied with the winnings as they were placed. That is the right kind of a spirit to have in regard to the way the ribbons are hung. Our poultry judges are all, (or most all) human and liable to err, and make mistakes. A game loser and a happy winner is what makes things pleasant to the fellows who are in charge of the show. I haven't heard a "kick" up to date, and it is too late now, so we will call all "kicks" off.

On January 23rd there will be held at Chamber of Commerce, a meeting at 7:30 p. m. to elect new officers for 1923, and transact other business that may come before the association, and I would be glad to see every member out and "have a say." Let's have a real "get-together" meeting. There are sixty of us now and we can have a good time "swapping" chicken "dope." I would be glad if we could have meetings once a month, and plan for the future. What do you think about the idea? Then don't you know we have a chance to win $150.00 this year, just by getting more new members to join the association, than any other county in the state? I believe 150 new members will pull the prize. I have 20 of them now, and will obligate myself to get 30 more during the year. Will you do the rest?

Now this invitation is not only for members, but extended to all that are interested in poultry, or those that want to see us win, so come out and let's "get-er-go!" Don't you know that three of your chicken raisers put Pontotoc county on the map at Cushing, by winning three out of five of the special cash premiums offered. Give us a "boost" and help win again.

We certainly had a nice exhibit of turkeys, and hope that the turkey "men" will come stronger next season. We will try to have better cooage for them. Mr. Floyd of the Pay-o-la milk station, wants to make some kind of a proposition, to the poultry raisers regarding eggs they have to market. Come and hear what it is. It may be worth something to you in a financial way.

Last, but not least, in behalf of the association, I want to thank the Merchants Association, for the support they gave our show, and the nice part about it was it was without solicitation, "free will offering." We are certainly grateful, as it is the first time that we ever had any assistance, without soliciting it. It made us feel as though we amounted to something in their estimation.

at least $50 worth, which they gave us.

Come out Tuesday, January 23, 7:30 and let's have a "round table talk."

Yours Truly,
LUTE DOUGE, Sec'y.

JAY, Okla.—Mrs. Nellie Foreman of the town of Grove was seriously injured when the cow she was milking stepped on her, breaking several of her ribs and inflicting internal injuries. Her daughter, Mrs. Lee Capehart, postmistress, was immediately summoned to her bedside.

A Nation's Tribute to Buick

There is an inspiring tribute to an industry in the universal recognition annually accorded the National Automobile Shows.

Thousands come to these exhibitions from every section of the continent and from foreign lands as well, and their advent is widely heralded the world over.

In the twenty-third National Automobile Show, just opening in New York, and later in Chicago, the nation is provided with a display of its chief means of personal transportation. This display is so complete and so magnificently set forth that all who come may easily carry away a perfect picture of the latest accomplishments in motor car building.

Year after year the national shows receive the homage of the entire country. Year after year they mark by their own increased magnitude and splendor, the increased growth of the automobile industry.

In occupying first place at both national shows for the fifth consecutive year, Buick continues the position in the industry awarded it by universal public opinion.

Everything Points to the Greatest Spring Demand for Ford Products in Company's History

1,202,517 Ford Cars and Trucks were delivered to retail purchasers in the United States alone during 1922—

Actual deliveries for last month greatly exceeded any previous December in the history of the Ford Motor Company.

It was the ninth consecutive month in which more than 100,000 Ford Cars and Trucks were retailed—keeping the Ford Plants working at capacity to meet dealers' requirements—

In many parts of the country dealers are already finding it necessary to specify later delivery dates on certain types because there are no reserve stocks to draw from—

Commercial users, business houses and farmers, anticipating their future requirements, are placing orders and taking delivery of Ford Cars, Trucks and Fordson Tractors to insure against delay—

Everything points to the biggest shortage of Ford Products this Spring that has ever existed—

The only way you can be sure of obtaining delivery of a Ford Car, Truck or Fordson Tractor is to list your order immediately—

We have given you these facts as they actually exist so that if you are planning to purchase a Ford Car, Truck or Tractor for use this Spring or Summer, you can list your order now and take advantage of our dealer's first opportunity to make delivery.

English Declare French Play

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, Jan. 20.—The military occupation of the Ruhr for the announced purpose of forcing Germany to pay long delayed reparations finds France dangerously near a social, economical and industrial abyss over the edge of which France and Belgium, with their burden of war trapping, have already disappeared, according to the views held in British official circles.

Stolid John Bull sits far to one side, immovable and almost unapproachable fourth member of the disrupted family, Italy, whose nervous efforts to bring about Franco-German mediation was a feature of developments in the European situation as viewed from London.

The Italian ambassador, who has just returned from Rome, has broached the question of mediation which if Britain initiates might terminate the war in Rhineland, but Mussolini's emissary has received no encouragement. This move is the latest evidence that the British government is convinced of the wisdom of the source it has taken in refusing to be associated in any way with the French determination to enforce the terms of the Versailles treaty at the point of the bayonet, without German being given another chance to pay after financial reforms have been instituted by Germany.

Howat Released From Jail After Parole Is Given

(By the Associated Press)
PITTSBURG, Kan., Jan. 20.—Alexander Howat, former president of district 14, United Mine Workers of America, and five of his colleagues who were members of the deceased district force, were released from the Crawford county jail today following a parole granted by Judge D. H. Wooley of the district court.

August Dorgy, former vice-president, John Fleming, James McIlwraith, Willard Titus and Earl Maxwell were the men released with Howat. The men have served 266 days of a years sentence for violation of a district court injunction prohibiting the calling of strikes.

FIFTY ARRESTS MADE IN DENVER BOOZE RAID

(By the Associated Press)
DENVER, Jan. 20.—Between fifty and sixty alleged bootleggers were in jail here tonight as a result of raids conducted by police today on more than forty establishments said to have been masquerading as soft drink stands, poolrooms, cigar stores, hotels and grocery stores. The raids which were carried out by more than one hundred patrolmen, were described by officers as the most complete clean-up of dry law violators in Colorado since prohibition became effective.

Wally Plays Final Role With Death

Reid's Son Believes Dad
Off To Star In Play
In New "Location."

(By the Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—A throng numbering thousands late today, filed into the First Congregational church here and overflowed on the pavement in front of the edifice while funeral services were being held for Wallace Reid, screen star, who died here Thursday as a result of illness brought on, according to relatives, by his struggle to quit the use of narcotics. All day a line of men, women and children drawn from the ranks of film workers and admirers of the dead actor passed quietly before the bier where Reid's body lay, attired in one of his favorite suede sport suits.

The body of Wallace Reid, motion picture star, went to its final "location" today. That was the word used to explain his absence to his small son Billy, although the word has a different meaning in this case.

The boy believes his father to be out of town making pictures of something that could not be duplicated at the studio.

Billy, who is five years old, and Reid's adopted daughter Betty, did not attend their father's funeral. They were kept at play at home this afternoon while the last rites were performed for him.

The body lay in state from ten o'clock this morning to 2:30 this afternoon in St. Mary's Congregational church not far from the center of the downtown district, seven miles from the Reid residence and from Hollywood district where he died.

The doors of the church were closed for an hour beginning at 2:30 and at 3:30 services were held by the Episcopal church and by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks Lodge 50, of which he was a member.

Reverend Neal Dodd, rector of St. Mary's of the Angels, read the Episcopal service. He is known as the "chaplain of the movies," and his church is Hollywood's "Little church around the corner."

Officials of the Elks gave the final of their order. Chief of Police Oakes had uniformed officers to handle the crowd around the church.

Active pallbearers included Benny Frazee, his chauffeur, William S. "Bill" Hart, Ed Brady, Noah Beery, William Monday, Eugene Pallett. Honorary pallbearers were Theodore Roberts, Jack Holt, Sam Wood, Conrad Nagel, Antonio Moreno, and Victor H. Clark, who will represent Jesse L. Lasky, director of the Famous Players Lasky coast studios, where Reid was employed.

A report of activities of the grand jury is not expected before the middle or latter part of next week, court officials maintain.

Further indications that the grand jury probe will go well into next week is seen in the fact that subpoenas for witnesses to appear Monday are now in the hands of the sheriff's office. Deliberations of the jury will necessarily consume some time after the testimony is taken.

Subpoenas continued to claim more rural residents than people of Ada. Approximately two-thirds of the summons served during the past week have been on residents outside the city of Ada, the sheriff's office reports.

The grand jury will resume their grind at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

THREE ADDED TO MURDER LIST IN LOUISIANA CASE

Witness Reveals Sensation

DEATH TRUCK FOUND

Klan Blamed In Latest
Murder In Morehouse
Parish.

(By the Associated Press)
BASTROP, Jan. 20.—Efforts of the state of Louisiana through an open hearing to fix responsibility for the kidnapping of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards moved forward today with unexpected rapidity. Three more names were added to the list of alleged kidnapers and the truth in which Daniels and Richards were whisked away was identified.

Smith Stevenson and Oliver Spikworth, the latter the youngest son of Captain J. K. Spikworth, admitted leader of the Ku Klux Klan in Morehouse parish, and the third man was identified only as "blacksmith" Smith. They were declared by witnesses today to have been members of the kidnapping band and the state put in evidence a telegram from the state bureau of motor vehicles at Baton Rouge giving the name of the man registered as the owner of the truck.

The name of Captain Spikworth was also connected with the stirring events of the evening when one witness testified that he saw Klan leaders at the fork of the Moore-Collins highway in conversation with a hooded man. The captives and prisoners were last seen at Collinsville.

H. B. Blankenship of Bastrop was the witness who identified young Spikworth, Stevenson and the truck and related one of the greatest sensations since the hearing got under way.

MONROE, Louisiana, Jan. 20.—Ku Klux Klan activities in Morehouse parish was the cause of the killing last night of John P. Parker Jr., of this town by Cary Calhoun of Bastrop, his cousin, according to evidence introduced at a coroner's inquest held here late today. The jury's verdict held that Parker came to his death by a gunshot wound inflicted in a scuffle with Calhoun. There were no recommendations.

Parker was formerly sheriff of the Ouachita parish and a captain in the Rainbow division in the world war.

BASTROP, Jan. 20.—H. E. Blankenship testified today that he had identified the truck bearing a Louisiana license number 74657 as the truck which he saw on Aug. 24 in which Watt Daniels was the prisoner of masked men. Blankenship said that he recognized two of the masked men as the son of Captain Spikworth, head of the Morehouse Ku Klux Klan, and Smith Stevenson.

BASTROP, Jan. 20.—T. Burnett, held on an affidavit charging murder in connection with the case of Watt Daniels and T. F. Richards was released on bond of $5000 today. It has been officially announced.

The defendant has reached an advanced age. Prior to this homicide he had borne a good reputation as a law-abiding citizen, and it is extremely unfortunate that at such a period in his life he should be called upon to respond to the law's mandate. On the other hand, a human life has been taken without apparent justification or excuse, and a conviction for murder would have been sustained before us.

Ussary pleaded insanity in the trial of the case in which the charge was murder. Self-defense was also considered at the trial. The jury found him guilty of first-degree manslaughter.

According to a review of the killing, contained in the decision handed down, Ussary killed Hyden with a shotgun, after Hyden, who, it was noted, was an epileptic, had beaten a neighbor woman, Mrs. McBroom.

Evergreens imperceptibly shed their leaves and acquire new ones without noticeable change in their general appearance.

Alice Tells 'Em Napkins Lead Astray

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Napkins have a way of disappearing where congressmen eat at the capitol just like they do in a restaurant out in Muskogee, Oklahoma.

It is just natural for the linen pieces to vanish from public eating places, Miss Alice Robertson, congresswoman from Oklahoma, told her colleagues today when the house got tangled up in debate about who was responsible for the vanishing of 150 dozen napkins in the house restaurant last year.

The matter was brought up during consideration of legislative appropriation bill after the science of auto suggestion had withstood a round of discussion.

Representative Blanton of Texas objected to the expense of the house restaurant and produced information that napkins to the number of 150 dozen had been used last year. This brought demands from various quarters as to how they disappeared and the debate promised to run on indefinitely when Miss "Alice" who used to operate a cafeteria in Muskogee, told the house members that napkins just had a way of disappearing and there was no use arguing further about it. That settled that.

NINE CASES GET COURT HEARING

Bolen Pushes Attorneys In
Cleaning Civil Docket
During Week.

The scales of justice have been accurately busy for the past week in district court before Judge J. W. Bolen in the hearing of jury cases docketed in regular session district court.

Nine cases have come before the court for decision in legal disputes, involving in several instances large sums of money.

District Judge J. W. Bolen, in an effort to clear the docket and dispose of many cases pending over from past terms of district court, has made rapid strides in settling matters to come before his court.

Early in the week Judge Bolen adopted stringent measures to avoid useless wrangling and further delay of trial of cases docketed. Thirty jurors have been detained by the court during the week for service in the matters before the court.

Following are jury decisions in cases brought to trial for the week: In the case of the Guaranty State bank vs. P. J. Brown, replevin, a find was made for the defendant for possession of the property sued for.

In the case of the Merchants and Planters National bank vs. T. C. Champion, et al, replevin, judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for possession.

In the case of W. J. Ricketts, et al vs. J. H. Davis, et al, recovery of money, verdict for defendants.

In the case of W. L. Williams vs. R. P. Ford, money due on note, foreclosure. Verdict for plaintiff for the sum of $380.40.

In the case of Mrs. N. A. Marshall vs. St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, damages. Judgment for $390.

In the case of the Consolidated Oil company vs. Harry L. Parsons, foreclosure. Judgment against defendant.

In the case of the Karges Furniture company vs. M. Levin, suit on account. Verdict for both, $46 to Karges Furniture company and $269.92 to M. Levin.

In the case of S. C. Collins vs. Petty C. Hobson et al, replevin of contract and recovery of land. Verdict for defendants.

In the case of Rice Stix Dry Goods company vs. William Weise, et al with Judge J. F. McKeel on the bench on agreement, verdict was given the plaintiff for the amount sued for.

OPERATORS HELD IN GRIM BATTLE IN RUHR VALLEY

German Workers Strike In
Ruhr Coal Regions As
Result Of Arrest.

BANK FUNDS SEIZED

Workers Continue Spirit Of
Non-Cooperation Toward
French Invaders

(By the Associated Press)
German industrial leaders in the Ruhr valley to the number of eighteen have been arrested for obstructing the occupation orders of the French. They were sent to French military headquarters at Mayence, where they will probably be placed on trial Monday. In consequence of this drastic action the occupation authorities are menaced with strikes of a far-spread nature. These are not likely to be confined to the mine workers but all classes in the Ruhr valley may cease work in sympathy.

Feelings already inflamed by the events of the past week, the workers are becoming further incensed by the arrest of the mine directors. They decided that they would not continue work while the directors are held.

During the ten days of occupation about 100,000 tons of requisitioned coal has been conveyed to France. Six coke ovens and four mines, all state owned, have been taken over and about ten billion marks in custom receipts and tax collections have been taken according to the French.

London appears to be watching the Ruhr proceedings anxiously and spokesmen of the government are not overly sanguine. The question of mediation by Great Britain as suggested by the Italian ambassador in behalf of his country has met with no response.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—A general strike in the state owned mines throughout area occupied by the French has been called for Monday, says a Central News dispatch from Berlin.

ESSEN, Jan. 20.—A grim game is being played by the French and Germans along the valleys of the Ruhr and Rhine. For every turn whereby French and Belgian occupation forces have registered a tactical or military advantage, the German residents carry out a new form of passive resistance.

The day was hectic with a succession of arrests of high German industrial and postal officials quickly followed with clocklike regularity by protest strikes of experts, manufacturing laborers and other employees, who struck doggedly by Berlin instructions to aid in nowise the "invaders."

The workers' council conferred with Lord Mayor Luther as to the advisability of calling out some of the five thousand postal telegraph and telephone workers in a general sympathetic strike but the decision is not to be announced until tomorrow. A large part of the forces at the various mines, whose directors were arrested responded almost immediately with protest strikes or ultimatums, which expire early next week. The French authorities have sent additional troops to guard the mines.

The people of Essen awoke this morning to find all the private banks in the city closed because a patrol had been placed over the Reichsbank and the personnel of these institutions refused to continue at their posts. Besides a number of small concerns there are twenty large banks in Essen.

Business men anticipate serious stoppage of trade in case the suspension of banking continues over the coming week. Essen's large banking institutions have unusually secure backing it is reliably stated and conduct many special dealings in stocks and bonds in addition to the usual cash bank transactions.

DUSSELDORF, Jan. 20.—With eighteen at their leading, competitors on the way to jail at Mayence the Germans are beginning to realize that the French are in earnest in carrying out their reparation policy in the Ruhr valley.

Despite the arrests, however, there is no sign of any intention by the Germans to recede from their program of non-cooperation and passive resistance to the occupation authorities.

The men in custody include state officials, industrial leaders, and capitalists. The conditions of

ABOUT FREE SPEECH

There are a great many persons who become greatly involved in their logic when they enter into a discussion of the rights under the guarantees of free speech. This includes some newspaper men.

The men who placed the first amendment in the constitution of the United States knew from experience the intolerance of one man for the opinion of another and of one group for the opinion of another.

After drafting the constitution to bind the several states in a perfect union, their first concern was the preservation of the right to reason and proclaim, in order that the truth might be found and the basis on which lasting political unity was to be built. The men who drafted our guarantee of free speech knew from experience the bitterness of intolerance at the hands of others.

Human nature has not greatly changed since 1791. Intolerance against the opinions of others is prevalent everywhere today, Kansas and Memphis, Tenn., have this year supplied the outstanding attacks against freedom of speech.

George Bernard Shaw has written a great defense of free speech in a single sentence that should have its place on every editorial room desk:

"Our whole theory of freedom of speech and opinion for all citizens rests, not on the assumption that everybody is right, but on the certainty that everybody is wrong on some point on which somebody else is right, so that there is a public danger in allowing anybody to go unheard."

Do not dismiss that sentence with a single reading—it is worthy of study. Many of us need that guidance, and especially when it is the other fellow's opinion that is being smothered under a wave of temporary intolerance.—Editor and Publisher.

The death of Wallace Reid, the noted motion picture star, ending a struggle to break the fetters of a drug habit, is only one of thousands that take place annually, but the prominence of the victim in this instance brings the matter home to the public with much more force than the death of one not so well known. The case was brought to the notice of the public sometime before the tragic ending and Reid was the recipient of all the sympathy that his admirers could give him in his struggle to conquer his habit and get a new hold on life. The drug addict presents a problem that is hard to solve. Of course no one ever deliberately started out with the intention of becoming a dope fiend, but weakly yielding to the lure of a soothing drug with its false inspiration, thinking that he could quit anytime he chose, the victim finds himself shackled with a habit that wrecks both mind and body and leaves only a shell of what was once a stalwart man. Slowly but surely the intellect is beclouded, reason is dethroned, suspicion enthroned, the sense of right and wrong is dulled until the victim finds himself all but helpless. As a rule this vice is indulged in so secretly that the world has little conception of its extent. All efforts to break up the traffic have failed so far, but now it is proposed to strike at the root of the evil by a treaty between the United States and Great Britain to curtail the production of opium in India. This offers a practical solution, but it remains to be seen what our former ally will do about it. If something tangible results from the wide publicity given the Reid case, that unfortunate young man will not have died in vain.

Boston is supposed to be the center of knowledge and culture, at least it poses thus, but an Oklahoma man who had occasion to make a trip to that place recently, reports that he inquired at every news stand in the city for an Oklahoma paper but was told that no papers published west of Pittsburgh were carried. This explains why those Easterners believe that Oklahoma is inhabited by barbarians and that there is no such thing as refinement outside of their own immediate sections.

The Germans are bucking about the French occupation of the Ruhr, but in view of the high handed measures employed by the Germans when they held French and Belgian territory the world will not take much stock in their whining. If the French have to use strong measures in dealing with some of the hard headed German leaders, they have some good precedents set by the Germans.

Many ideas on town building have been advanced, but no one has yet suggested that a town can amount to anything without a live chamber of commerce. It takes co-operation of all classes to build a real city and in no other way can this be brought about other than through a hustling organization of the citizenship.

The acquittal of the first five men accused of murder in connection with the Herrin massacre makes it certain that no further steps will be taken in the matter. Some of the critics of mob law in the South now have an example of a wholesale lynching at their own doors.

Let a NEWS WANT AD get it for you.

Speculation

(Chicago Tribune)

The desire to get rich quickly has brought poverty to many. You cannot get something for nothing without taking the risk of getting nothing. Those who speculate should never do so with more money than they can afford to lose. Most money is lost by speculation. It is gained that way. Speculation is not a game for those of moderate means, for they cannot afford to lose. The speculator must be able to take a loss.

There are legitimate speculations and those which are not. With the former one stands to gain or lose. With the latter one stands small chance, but to lose. In this class are included a vast number of wildcat promotions offered by unscrupulous salesmen. They usually offer extravagant returns that never materialize. Not only that, but the principal invested is usually lost as well, for it finds its way into the pocket of the promoter who is largely trying to enrich himself at the expense of the trusting public. He operates on the theory that "a fool and his money are soon parted," and he makes a living at it while those who "invest" with him are merely contributing to his support.

Then there are the bucket shops which fleece the investor even in legitimate or high grade securities by "bucketing" orders and juggling transactions, and accounts these houses manage to turn into a loss. Any gains the client may be entitled to and his money is as good as gone as soon as they receive it.

Unless you can afford to lose, don't speculate. If you are going to some sound and genuine security where the principal will be safe and a steady income assured, if you do speculate there are several things to remember: Use only funds which you can afford to lose—avoid schemes about which you know nothing except what the salesman tells you—suspect all extravagant claims—deal only through brokerage houses whose reputations are unquestioned—do not try to recoup a loss by drawing on funds which you cannot afford to lose.

The March Into Germany

(Dearborn Independent)

Informed people are not surprised by France's march into Germany. The wonder is that it has been so long delayed after being so definitely foreshadowed. But no one is well enough informed to see what the end shall be. France has determined to go it alone regardless of world opinion. She feels that the world does not understand her position and willfully refuses to share her emotion, and she has, therefore, decided to make the best of the power she possesses to prove herself still to be a factor in world affairs. Any nation choosing that course could become a factor in world affairs. It means, as the trouble ostensibly between German and Turkey mount, that France is cutting loose from her allies.

The cause is simple: Germany has not delivered to France the amount of coal allotted to her under the reparations agreement. It is so simple that in America it is difficult to understand what it means. It means, principally, that with Germany herself suffering from a serious fuel shortage, German workmen revolt at the thought of digging coal the year round and sending it to France. There can be no question that, having rendered French mines useless by the scientifically fiendish devastation of war, Germany is bound to repay, but that is not the only element of the question. Of two men in a fight, the attacker should be compelled to make good, but if the attacker himself is in the hospital because of the wounds he received in his attack, there is also the question of ability to perform; and that is the situation in Europe. It does not settle anything to decide where justice lies, for it is a complex of injustice on all sides which human ingenuity has failed to untangle.

It all comes to this, probably, that the loom of fate is weaving the strands of further unsettlement and disaster. The situation must be considered as a whole, and not as merely French or German, and, of course, this is impossible for any European country to do. This incident may pass for the present without apparent result. It appears to have been diplomatically regarded thus far. But in the future it sells the line up of a new Mediterranean alliance, with Poland, Rumania and Turkey certainly with France, a line across Southern Europe, broken only by the possible refusal of Italy to take part. And that most certainly means a visible preparation for another struggle.

Today it is possible to observe almost hour by hour a restless destiny setting the scene for the great Armageddon, the Last War, of which the Great War was the preparatory chapter. The Great War was fought by ill-assorted allies who normally would not have been allies. Now the natural allies will find each other, and not the least surprising element of the new alignment will probably be that Germany, perhaps separated from some of her present kingdoms, will be lined up with her former enemies of Britain and America, right or wrongly, that seems to be the way the finger is pointing.

Plans Complete for Chamber Commerce Building at Tulsa

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 19.—A committee from the Tulsa chamber of commerce has been appointed to select a site in the business district for the location for a new chamber of commerce building planned to be erected here soon.

Charles B. Peters, president of the business men's organization announced this week all but $3,000 of the $75,000 budget to build the new home had been subscribed. It is planned to erect a building cost approximately $75,000 and to raise the balance of the total cost by mortgaging the property. The new building is planned to be a civic center, providing rooms for club meetings, and dining rooms for all civic clubs of the city. A large auditorium is also to be provided.

The chamber of commerce is now housed on the fourth floor of the city hall building in three small rooms, and other civic organizations have no permanent headquarters. The new building will be three or four stories in height, according to plans.

The result of the Friday night games placed the Frogs and High school at a tie for first honors and the News at third place.

The Frogs and High school will play off the tie game at a later date.

The News slid over a defeat on the Cub team Saturday night in the opening game of the second half of the schedule by a score of 18 to 16.

The scheduled High school and Guard game was postponed Saturday night, the Guard team being out of the city on another matched game.

Ex-Service Men Of State Favor Bonus For Vets

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—Ex-service men in Oklahoma who are members of the American Legion are twenty to one in favor of some form of state bonus, according to Leon H. Brown, state adjutant of the legion.

Brown announced that a referendum of members of all legion posts in the state is under way on the question, and that replies have been received from about half the membership. He said that additional returns are not expected to change the showing.

In the form the referendum was submitted, Brown said, it allowed only for a vote as to whether the men favored any form of state compensation. He pointed out that no special recommendations as to the form of compensation were made in the vote call. He said that, with the mandate from legion members favoring a state bonus, the state executive committee, headed by Commander Dudley Monk, would prepare a bonus proposal or would adopt one prepared by some other authority. He said the committee has secured copies of bonus laws passed by other states and would study all such law before framing a proposal for Oklahoma.

CRUEL LAW SENDS NEWLYWED TO JAIL

Joseph K. Gorman and his bride in their first post-nuptial soul kiss.

(By HARRY W. MEETER)

The game between Ada scouts of Troop No. 4 and 5 and the Konawa scouts was an exciting fight from start to finish as the teams were very evenly matched. The Konawa scouts came down Saturday night in cars. The game was cleanly played by the members of each team and the decisions of the referee of Konawa were satisfactory to each team. The game resulted in a victory for Ada, 26 to 23.

It was Sunday morning at one of our churches. This scout boy had been to Sunday school and then went home for his mother. They came to church together. I didn't see whether he opened the door for her or not but I really believe that he did. At any rate he came into the auditorium with her and found a seat for her and sat down beside her and worshipped with her in the same pew. That was an encouraging sight to behold, that scout coming into the church with his mother. There are other scouts in Ada who were in church we are sure and some of them came with their mothers and sat with them. Listen scouts you can't be at any better place than in church on Sunday morning, and we think that you can not do any finer thing than to come with your mother and sit with her during the hour of worship. "A scout is reverent." This is the twelfth law.

Monday evening we went to Maxwell with a radio concert. Mr. Presnal Sugg drove Mr. Syd Sachs car with Carl Spangler and the scout executive in it. Prof. Graham invited us over to organize a troop. This is the first community in this county so far, which has asked for the organization of a scout troop.

The concert given was one of the very finest, which we have ever given in this county. It took us just about one hour to get our aerial up and it all connected up and then we went to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Burns for supper which was a very fine one indeed. A big crowd came to hear the program and we were successful in getting enough money to register quite a large troop of scouts there. The following men will act as troop committeemen for the year: Messrs. E. E. Sutton, Alfred Summers, and Dr. S. L. Burns and the scout master will be Prof. Arthur S. Graham. With such a fine community as Maxwell is we are sure that the scout program will be put over very successfully.

Troop No. 7 went to Francis Tuesday to play the Francis scout team a game of basketball. It was a hard fought game but Ada scouts won 12 to 2. Francis scouts will come here for a game a little later. Troop No. 2 had about 20 scouts out to their meeting last week. Some scout tests were worked on. The following Ada scouts played Haskell Floyd, Morgan Carroll, Owen Izzard, N. T. Heard Jr., Bill Huddleston, Clarence K. Ivis.

The scout executive went to Roff and Fitzhugh during the week having meetings with the scouts at these places. We will have about 26 scouts at Fitzhugh this year. Roff scouts will do well this year. Allen and Francis Scouts played a basketball game this week. Mr. Ralph Wamer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has consented to take charge of troop No. 7, of Willard school and that will mean that this troop will have a fine coach for all athletic activities and in addition to the Mr. Wamer has had some experience in scouting.

W. D. Little, editor of the News Mr. W. L. Whitaker and the scout executive went to Union Valley for a Father and Son get-together meeting Thursday evening. However we were some what disappointed in the crowd but it was not Mr. Jones or Mr. Riddle's fault, for we are sure that they had done their part to get us a crowd. Despite the fact that the crowd was small Mr. Little and Mr. Whitaker did their part well and interested the boys in what they had to say.

At Oakman, Friday, we had the pleasure of seeing seven boys take the Boy Scout promise and laws and join the organization. Mr. Lester Lillard is the scout master and he has made a fine start with the boys which we much appreciate.

Prof. A. S. Graham of Maxwell sent in the names of 17 new scouts who were enrolled Friday. We appreciate the fine cooperation of Mr. Graham and the troop committee out there.

The Physical Examination contest took place as scheduled at the First Presbyterian Church basement. Drs. McKee, Dawson, McNew Laird, Granger and Webster conducted the examination and Messrs. H. E. Hammon, R. T. Williamson, U. C. Dixon, W. P. Armstrong, B. H. Dawson, Jr., Tom Fullerton, Roy Meeks and Mayo McKeown acted as clerks. Only 45 scouts were present and only 39 took the examination due to the fact that there were so many other things on hand. The following scouts were the winners, of the prizes given by The MacThwaite Oil & Gas Co. In the twelve year old class Weedel Ednett of troop No. 10, won first place, Harold Webster of troop No. 2, won second place, Lee Couch of troop No. 2, won third place; in the thirteen year old class, Farley Smith of troop No. 10 won first place, Joe Tom McKinley of troop No. 2 won second place, Ed Gwin of troop No. 5, third place. In the fourteen year old class Leon Brown of Troop No. 4 won first place, Leroy Sawyer of troop No. 2 won

ADA HI WINNER IN DEBATE HERE

First Contest is Won From Stonewall; Musical Program Given.

In the first debate of the year held in the high school auditorium Friday evening, the Ada high school defeated Stonewall high in a spirited debate on the state question: Resolved: that foreign immigration to the United States should be further restricted.

The affirmative of the question was upheld by Stonewall in a very highly creditable manner. The Stonewall team consisted of Miss Evelyn Burris, Miss Abbey Williams, and Earnest Fuller.

The Ada high school, represented by one of the strongest teams the school has ever had, defended the negative side of the question. The Ada team, consisting of Joy Pegg, Fay Laird and Bob Naylor, have been working under the coaching of Prof. J. L. German, head of the english department in the high school. Their first battle was a creditable one, both to themselves and to their coach.

The judges were Superintendent A. Floyd and Messrs. Norris and Wood of the college faculty. Their decision was two to one in favor of the negative, represented by Ada. Preceding the debate, a splendid musical program was rendered by the high school orchestra, under the supervision of Mr. Cudd, and the girls choruses, directed by Miss Inez Donaldson.

At the conclusion of the debate, Mrs. Charles Bobbitt, head of the home economics department of the high school, assisted by the girls of that department, served delightful refreshments consisting of hot chocolate and wafers.

Few patrons of the schools were out but there was a highly appreciative audience of high school folks present.

Man Slain by Posse After Killing Three Men on Texas Trail

(By the Associated Press)

EL PASO, Jan. 20.—A man believed to be William Sprague of Paris, Missouri, who escaped from a Southern Pacific train near Lanark, New Mexico, early today after shooting Harry Turner, of El Paso and Herbert Brown of Indianola, Oklahoma to death and fatally wounding P. O. Cochran of Branson, Missouri, was killed late today near La Mesa, Mexico, by a posse headed by Sheriff of Las Cruces.

He was practically without clothes when killed, having discarded all his outer garments and shoes in flight. Officials expressed the belief that he was demented.

Every boy scout in Ada, who has not registered should do so at once so that we may get all registrations in soon.

The next big event for all scouts will be the big annual banquet for fathers and scouts. Better get registered if you want to get in on all of these things.

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERS SEARCH FOR U. S. CLERK

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—Arnold C. Doidge, veteran clerk of the United States district court for Western Oklahoma, who disappeared three days ago while an audit of his accounts was in progress, today was removed from office in an order issued by Federal Judge John H. Cotteral.

Harry L. Findley of Norman was sworn in as Doidge's successor.

The search for the missing clerk who was last seen in Shawnee early Thursday morning, was continued today by federal officers with officers of the United States bureau of investigation joining in the hunt.

Youth Killed by Truck.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—Edwin Grim, five years old, was run over and killed instantly by a motor truck late today. Obie McAdams, driver of the truck was exonerated. Young Grim's death is the seventh resulting from automobile accidents here this year.

Chamber of Commerce History

The question is frequently asked: "What is a Chamber of Commerce? What is it like, and what does it do?" A question like this is not easily answered especially to the satisfaction of the type in commercial organization affairs. A brief answer to it, however, may be given by quoting from American Chambers of Commerce, by Kenneth Sturges, printed in 1915 by Moffat, Yard & Company, where Chambers of Commerce are defined as "bodies of local business and professional men, engaged in improving trade conditions, urging legislation beneficial to commerce and the social welfare, and most important, encouraging the growth and prosperity of their several communities." The author further states that in the United States the terms "Board of Trade," "Commercial Club" and "Chamber of Commerce" are synonymous. To these terms should be added "Board of Commerce Association."

The fairs and merchant guilds of medieval Europe are considered the actual prototypes of the modern Chamber of Commerce. Following the fairs of the twelfth century, came the merchant guilds which were developed during feudal times and which were the first private institutions formed to protect their members. With the disintegration of the guild system in the fifteenth century, Chambers of Commerce were evolved. The name was first applied to an association of merchants at Marseilles early in the fifteenth century, but which was not definitely organized until 1650. But the French chambers, as has also been the case, with associations in several European countries, were closely affiliated with the government. Of these chambers organized and conducted entirely independent of government affiliations, one of the very oldest in the world, and the oldest in America, is the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York, founded in 1768 in New York City. The second oldest in America is the Charleston Chamber of Commerce, founded in 1773. By 1801 Chambers had also been established in the United States at New Haven and Philadelphia.

In the British Chambers of Commerce, organized about this time were the Jersey Chamber of Commerce, 1769; Dublin, 1783; Leeds, 1785; Manchester, 1794; and Belfast, 1794. It is obvious that Chambers of Commerce had their origin in the earliest period of commercial history. As commerce has come to be a large measure the great motive power that controls the action, the energy, and the ambitions of the world, it is natural that Chambers of Commerce should have an important institution in business affairs throughout the world.

Value of Organization. The value of organization among those having a common interest became so apparent during the World War period that the number of Chambers of Commerce and other commercial and trade organizations throughout the United States increased faster than ever before in the period of time. The various economic interests and business groups organized because, for one reason, experience showed such action necessary, if the interest of that group or community were to be protected or improved. Another reason was, the impetus for forming associations during the war was accelerated by the United States government. First, in trades where no association existed the government, in some instances, pointed out some of the influential members of the industry, the value of an organization for that trade with the military authorities. The result was many new trade associations. Second, referring to Chambers of Commerce, the secretary of war said: "Commercial organizations would greatly assist the government in its work of organizing the country for self-defense if there were a militant Chamber of Commerce in every city of the Union. Efforts to organize such a vigorous and representative commercial body is a patriotic effort which all good citizens should aid."

Membership in Chamber of Commerce.

Membership in American associations is voluntary, and with a few exceptions open to all local citizens, firms or corporations in good standing. In the membership will be found the public spirited citizens, not only men, but frequently women, possessed of civic pride, representing every local element, following business or professional careers.

It is an established principle in the philosophy of civilization, that an obligation rests upon all qualified men, as soon as a livelihood has been assured, to devote some of their ability to the common welfare. For applying their ability to the best advantage the Chamber of Commerce affords an important, and in many localities the only agency, it naturally follows that the majority of the very highest type of men in every community can be found in the membership of its commercial association. These men become members of Chambers which are voluntary service organizations, and pay the dues and expenses of membership, in order to have the privilege of serving their ability.

Functions and Activities. In times past a Chamber of Commerce largely served a small special interest or group in its community. Practically the entire attention of its paid secretaries was devoted to securing new industries for the city, additional transportation facilities, conventions, and various other trade benefits. In a few cities this still may be true of the commercial organizations. But generally throughout the United States the functions and purposes of a Chamber of Commerce have been radically changed. It has today taken under its purview service to the entire community. It is devoted to making its place an attractive and satisfactory place to live. It covers in its activities, often to a major degree, matters of housing, transportation, recreation, health, education and other affairs of a broad, social welfare character.

At the same time, Chambers are today rendering more direct service than ever to their members. In practically all the larger cities, departments or bureaus are maintained with a paid executive in charge, occupied with providing valuable business information and assistance. Yet the principal keynote back of Chambers of Commerce today is an association organized not primarily to secure petty business advantages for individual members, but to furnish an organized opportunity to individuals, firms and groups of business men to build up the highest type of commercial and industrial development for the benefit of every man, woman and child in the city.

A Chamber of Commerce usually combines in its activities questions of Production, Transportation, Industry, Commerce and Civics. Experience has shown that every community populous enough to support a Chamber is usually greatly benefited by the organization of such a body for it provides leadership under which community progress can be accelerated and business and civic affairs built up upon a solid foundation. It is the logical central organization for community leadership, aiming both to promote and protect the commercial and industrial interests of the city as well as to improve the living conditions and social well-being.

American Chambers of Commerce have never had an official connection with the Government, as is common in Europe, and acts solely upon their own interpretation of what makes for the material and social advancement of their community.

A city's commercial organization, however, often acts in extending the hospitality of the city to distinguished visitors and commissions. This is a valuable service, which can be rendered on short notice and most satisfactorily.

Chamber of Commerce and Public Opinion.

The Chamber of Commerce is the business man's agent through which he expresses his opinion on the public welfare. It offers at the same time, a practical and enlightened method for reaching a correct opinion through committee meetings, with their discussions, assembling of pertinent data, and frequent introduction of testimony from experts and specialists. It is a sound procedure in the provided for reaching correct conclusions. The individual, working alone, cannot attain such a high average of sound opinions as will be possible when his efforts are assisted by active membership in a Chamber of Commerce. Thus a Chamber of Commerce provides a local clearing house for the crystallization of well-thought-out community opinion on the subjects of local, state and national scope.

As public opinion is the most potent force in the world today, and has the power to make even despots of autocracy eventually yield, those bearing the responsibilities of government in a democratic form of government naturally give careful attention to the opinions of Chambers of Commerce. One of the greatest difficulties of our officials is to gauge public opinions correctly; and the voices of the Chambers of Commerce throughout the United States furnish an important medium for determining the real sentiment of the electorate.

So it is that our Chambers of Commerce are important factors in determining the laws of the land. Members of legislative bodies take notice of the actions of local Chambers, particularly of organizations which have a reputation for reaching a conclusion only after a serious study and discussion of the subject before them, and which have a membership that actively participates in the reports adopted. It is natural that a Chamber of Commerce should have far greater power than the spasmodic efforts of an individual; for it represents organized collective action and speaks with the power and backing of the vital and responsible commercial interests of its city. It is the central focus of the varied commercial interests of the city are concentrated. Its expression of views normally represent what it considers will be for the mutual benefit of the greatest number. Many lawmakers consider it part of the necessary business of a Chamber of Commerce to make manifest to the nation's legislators its desires.

Chambers of Commerce, however, as a class carefully avoid politics and party affiliations. It has been said that any organization which seeks to exert political power is a menace to our institutions unless it is organized as a political party. Therefore, the function of a Chamber of Commerce in this connection is merely to develop public sentiment, and then advance it on behalf or against proposed government measures. It is not ordinarily concerned with elections or political parties; though this might happen where well-established American institutions are attacked.

Chambers of Commerce and Fake Stock and Business Promotion.

For many generations the United States has suffered great economic losses yearly from promoters of fake securities and business undertakings. This economic loss injures commerce as surely as does fire, storms, war and other destructive agencies. It is as indefensible as the acts of the chieftains of London who threw stones through windows to make business for their trade. Various states have passed laws from time to time designed to protect the innocent public from gold brick vendors, for in modern society the old principles of caveat emptor must be modified. Such laws however, can only partially accomplish their purpose, for swindlers quickly find methods to circumvent statutory regulations. The individual in earning his livelihood is subject to many vicissitudes through the natural ups and downs of business and movements of economic laws which are but slightly understood. It is indeed a shame that he should also suffer from the action of those who as promoters of fake securities and questionable business undertakings are wilfully trying to rob him of his earnings. During the last two or three years a movement has spread among Chambers of Commerce throughout the United States to protect their communities from these leeches. Illinois and Massachusetts under the auspices of their state Chambers have been especially active in this particular. Certain associations of a national character are also working to publish business and eliminate the crook and swindler. These associations are co-operating very closely with Chambers of Commerce.

Of course it is impossible for a Chamber of Commerce to protect its community completely from losses in fake business propositions, even though the fake business is being conducted in its immediate neighborhood. A great number of these propositions, for instance, are operated at first within the law, and their fraudulent intention are not known until after the frauds have been committed. When this happens the swindlers often decamp or if they are captured restitution is seldom possible.

The general public is getting in a way, however, of making inquiry of the Chamber of Commerce in the Community where stock and business promoters have their headquarters. Thus information regarding the movement or promoters is provided, and even though a Chamber does not care to supply information from its own offices, it is of great assistance in suppressing questionable undertakings by co-operating with national or local associations which are engaged solely in this work and are constantly reporting upon and examining into security promotions and business enterprises of uncertain reliability.

Former Railroad Conductor Points Out Way to Truce

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19. — Joe S. Cobb, of Shawnee, former railroad conductor recently appointed a member of the state corporation commission, sitting in a railroad case before the commission the day before he took the oath of office, pointed the way to a settlement of the case out of the funds of his personal knowledge of railway operations.

The town of Canadian petitioned the corporation commission to order the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad to install a crossing bell, and the road protested because the expense entailed would be more than $1,000 attorneys explained.

By a series of questions Cobb learned from the attorneys that there were six trains which passed through Canadian daily without stopping, and that five of them went through in hours when the agent was on duty. He suggested that the agent flag the crossing, and everybody admitted they had not thought of such a simple solution. Both parties agreed to adjourn the hearing and indicated a settlement would be effected, based on Cobb's suggestion.

Mrs. Duvall reports some highly interesting club meetings during the past week. Monday the women's club of Galey met with Mrs. Will Boen with 18 present. Gardening, bread making and child care were the topic for discussion. The February meeting will be held with Mrs. Q. R. Bovers at which time the subject of poultry will be taken up. The women's club of Center met Tuesday with Mrs. A. G. Austell and a demonstration in making dress forms was given. About a dozen ladies were present. Wednesday the girls club of Rocky Chapel met with Mrs. B. A. Howard. The meeting was devoted to a lesson in sewing. Thursday the girls clubs of Homer and High Hill held their regular meetings and were given a lesson in sewing. Friday the women's club of Owl Creek met with Mrs. W. W. Murphy. The program consisted of a study in gardening. The hostess served delicious refreshments at the conclusion of the program. The February meeting will also be held at the Murphy home and will be devoted to the subject of poultry.

Agent Hill reports that much more ground than usual has been broken by the farmers of the county and that there has never been such a cleanup as is now in progress. The farmers are doing their best to head off another visitation by the boll weevils.

Agent Hill suggests that people should bear in mind that now is the time to transplant their blackberries and dewberries, prune their grapes and trees and apply the first spray to the fruit trees. At this time the lime and sulphur spray should be used.

According to all accounts the farmers of Pontotoc county are doing a great deal of terracing now. They realize the importance of saving their soil and are working up terraces to hold it. This is an important matter and means a great deal to all concerned.

A considerable number of incubators are being set now and it will not be long until frying chickens will be on the market. In this as in other things, the early ones will get the best of the market.

Eighteen months ago the sight of a cream can was almost unknown in Ada. Now if anyone happens to be around the cream station on Saturday he sees a procession of wagons and other vehicles driving up with cargoes of cream. Some bring only a gallon or two, while others haul a big can. The checks received by the various individuals may not be very large and may not enable them to increase their bank deposits very fast, but in the aggregate they total up a tidy sum and keep the recipients from having to make notes at the bank and pay out a slice of their cotton receipts in the fall for interest.

Yost Declares Football is Essential Factor in Life Of American College Lads

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—American youths in too many homes of the nation live a life of luxury and spend too much time on the soft easy cushions of automobiles. In the opinion of Fielding H. Yost, coach of the University of Michigan, who today emphasized the value of football in developing "that unconquerable fighting spirit so badly needed in our American life."

Playing the popular college game will cultivate the qualities of determination, persistence and courage, the veteran mentor declared, that can now be better learned than on the gridirons. Coach Yost believes that football, as well as other athletics, should remain a contributing factor of college training, as the sport will enable college boys to become better fitted for their careers.

"This is the one virtue American games and it is needed badly in our American life," Coach Yost said. "The benefits are derived not only by the thousands who play the game, but by the many more thousands who witness these contests. Our boys in too many homes live a life of luxury and ease and spend too much of their time on the soft easy cushions of automobiles. What they need and must have to fit them as men—real men—are the very things which are taught and developed on the football field, a ground alert body, a keen, quick thinking mind and that unconquerable fighting spirit which overcomes all obstacles in the end."

"Athletic games are generally recognized as a necessary part of our national school and college life."

"The critics of college athletics, especially football, suggest that we should have less football, or none at all, and promote athletics for everyone. What have these men done and what are their experiences in establishing, financing and putting across such a voluntary program? Those in charge of intercollegiate athletics, through the funds obtained largely from football, have financed and developed a broad intercollegiate and intramural athletic program, based on voluntary participation."

"Boys go to college to obtain a better education and to become better fitted for life. Football, as other athletic activities, is, and should ever remain, a contributory factor to this main object of college training. It should not be made an end in itself for then it loses much of the ordinary benefit that is usually derived from it."

"This difficulty can be eliminated by arranging schedules so as to cause players to miss as few classes as possible, by limiting the length of practice periods and by seeing that the schedule of the season do not extend over too long a period of time. All football schedules should close by Thanksgiving Day. At the same time these boys will learn to sacrifice themselves to a group or institution for the attainment of a common goal, which means that they will learn cooperation, team play, loyalty and service. Likewise, they will cultivate the qualities of determination, will power, persistence and courage, both moral and physical."

"Even those who do not participate learn the lessons of service and loyalty which permeates the student atmosphere as a result of football."

APPELLATE COURT AFFIRMS CONVICTION OF NORTHCUTT

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20.—The state criminal court of appeals affirmed the conviction of John Northcutt, of Okmulgee, charged with the murder of Jim Lawrence Nov. 23, 1919, and approved the sentence of a life term in the state penitentiary. Northcutt pleaded self-defense at the trial at Okmulgee in the superior court in May, 1920. Judgement was pronounced May 17, 1920. It was alleged he killed Lawrence after an argument on a country road near the town of Kusa.

HEARD ABOUT OLIVER?
Neither had I until Manager Jack Miller of the San Francisco Pacific Coast League club unburdened himself the other day regarding the lad.

Last name's Mitchell and he's a southpaw pitcher. Miller says, to start with, that Oliver is the best pitcher he has on his team right now. Which is a good start.

Mitchell's work last year indicates he is a comer. He won 26 games and lost 7 for the Frisco club last year and in three of the seven games he lost his teammates failed to score a run behind him.

Mitchell is only 22. Coast league fans say that he has the pitching style of Slim Sallee—that easy going way which makes the batter swear he hasn't got a thing—while they're fanning the ozone with their budgeons.

Why the big league scouts grabbed Jimmy O'Connell, Willie Kanan and even two pitchers, Walcott and Kunz and passed up Mitchell is a mystery to him. Miller says. Miller is too old a hand to rave idly about a player so we may hear more about Mr. Mitchell, first name Oliver.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Angelina Was Right, Whether She Meant It or Not

BY F. LEIPZIGER

THE ILLUSTRIOUS HERO OF THE SOUTH

Robert E. Lee, Born Jan. 19, 1807

There is no day in all the year that so appeals to the heart of the South as that on which was born the great Confederate Chief. Its annual return recalls to all true Southerners sad, sacred yet proud historic memories that will never die. And every American north, as well as south may well rejoice that such a grand character was born, lived and died on American soil, the influence of whose life is the heritage of all the world, for succeeding ages.

Well did the London Standard say on his death: "A country which has given birth to men like him, and those who followed him, may look the chivalry of Europe in the face without shame; for the fatherlands of Sidney and of Bayard never produced a nobler soldier, gentleman, and Christian than General Robert Edward Lee."

This illustrious man was born at Stratford, Westmoreland county, Virginia, January 19, 1807. Of pure Norman blood, the long line of the Lees may be traced back to a certain Launcelot T. Lee of London, in France, who accompanied William the Conqueror upon his expedition to England, and after the battle of Hastings, was rewarded for his services by an estate in Essex. From that memorable date the name Lee occurs continually and honorably in English annals. There is Lionel Lee who fought by Coeur de Lion's side in Palestine, and who for his gallantry at Acre and in other battles with the infidel was on his return home made the first Earl of Litchfield, and presented by the King with the estate of Ditchley. Subsequently held as all the readers of Walter Scott must remember by that indomitable old knight, Sir Henry Lee, who figures so conspicuously in Woodstock.

Then comes Richard Lee, who accompanied the unfortunate Earl of Surrey against the Scotch borders in 1542. Two of the family were knights of the Garter, and so distinguished themselves as to have their banners suspended in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, with the Lee coat of arms emblazoned thereon, and the significant family motto: "Non ignota futuris." Coming down to the time of the first Charles, we find the Lees in Shropshire, all staunch cavaliers. Then it was that the accomplished Richard Lee came over to the colony of Virginia as secretary of the King's privy council. He is described as "a man of good stature, comely visage, enterprising genius, a sound head, and generous nature." Words we may apply literally to the person and character of his world-renowned descendant. With this gentleman the noble stock of the Virginia Lee's originated.

Thomas Lee, grandson of Richard, was president of the Colonial Council, and governor of Virginia, the first man of American birth named to this post by the English government. Three of his sons played a remarkable part in the war of Independence: Richard Henry Lee, the great orator and debater in the American congress; Francis Lightfoot Lee, signer of the Declaration of Independence; and Arthur Lee, who represented in France, and elsewhere the colonial interests.

General Henry Lee, the father of Robert Lee, was a grandson of a brother of President Lee, was an intimate friend of Washington, served with great distinction as a cavalry leader through the Revolution and became famous as "Light Horse Henry." He married Anne Hill Carter, daughter of Charles Carter of Shirley on the James, of which union Robert E. Lee was the third son. After the Revolution, Henry Lee was elected governor of Virginia. His memories of the war in the southern campaign, detailing the services of his cavalry legion.

After classical and mathematical training Robert E. Lee entered West Point in 1825, graduated in 1829, was assigned to duty in the U. S. regular army as second lieutenant of Engineers; married in 1832 Mary Curtis, daughter of G. W. Pickens, the adopted son of General Washington, served in Mexican war as chief engineer of Scott's army; was superintendent of West Point 1852-55; appointed commandant of cavalry, March 1861, but resigned April 29, to offer his services to his native state that had seceded and finally was commander in chief of the Confederate armies, surrendering at Appomattox, April 9, 1865. "He who led those armies against invaders retired from the unequal contest defeated but not dishonored; the noble Virginian soldier, whose talents and virtues place him by the side of the best and finest man who sat on the throne of the Imperial Caesars."

Refusing all gifts of houses, estates and money, offered him here and in Europe, and declining positions of princely salary, he accepted in the summer of 1865, the presidency of Washington college, now Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., having resolved to consecrate the remainder of his life to the great work of training the youth of the land he had loved and served so well. Thus again illustrating the precept that had moulded his own character, that "Duty is the noblest word in the English language." His college work as president was eminently successful, but in the midst of his labors God called him and he entered into eternal rest at Lexington, October 12, 1870, and his memories were interred in the college chapel, where they still rest.

Transcendent as was his military genius, ranking him among the greatest captains of the world, it was as a man that he was truly great, for he possessed all those virtues and graces which dignify and adorn human nature, and which are essential to moral grandeur and sublimity of character.

A few personal details of the general during the war may not be out of place. In spite of the reserved air which seldom left him, Lee received with kindness the humblest of his soldiers. Naturally very simple in his manners, and kind, endowed with great sweetness and much patience, he made no difference in his fashion of receiving those of all ranks who came to him. He used to say that the common soldier, who fought without the allurements of rank, pay, glory, but only from a sense of duty and love of country, were the most deserving class in the army, and had a right to the utmost consideration and best treatment. This extreme simplicity of life and manners rendered him peculiarly dear to the troops.

The inside of his tent, which he would never leave for the shelter of a house, although often entreated to do so, afforded no object of luxury. The covering of the commander-in-chief was the same as that of the soldier, and his food often inferior to that of the majority of his officers and men.

Everywhere he was presented with dainties, cases packed with turkeys, hams, wines, spirits, cakes, etc., very tempting to the life of a soldier; but he kept them nearly always to the sick and wounded. His guiding principle was to set his officers an example of not faring better than their soldiers.

For the rest to lie hard, to eat little, to drink only water, were not to him privations. It was the life he had led for years on the frontiers of Texas and Mexico. He liked neither wine nor spirits, and made no use of tobacco in any form; rarely allowed himself a moment's relaxation. When not inspecting his camp to see if the troops needed anything, or when not visiting the outposts, he was in his tent at work, going through reports, corresponding with the authorities at Richmond and occupying himself with all that touched the well being of the army under his orders.

Sometimes if near country houses, he would pay a visit to the ladies, and across the children, thus revealing an unexpected side to his character. His goodness, sweetness, and affectionate smile, singularly attracted children, and inspired them with a touching confidence. One day a little girl, near Fredericksburg, confided to him as to her best friend, trembling all the while, that she would like to kiss general Jackson. The brave Stonewall blushed like a young girl, when Lee with a mischievous smile told him of the child's wish. In such a moment Lee was charming. The pleasure he felt was true and unalloyed; he forgot himself, and it was difficult to believe that this officer, in a simple gray uniform, so affectionate and child-like, was the commander of the great Confederate army.

The most beautiful and interesting feature of his character, was his humble and profound piety. But that must be the subject of another article.

Featuring in one continuous reel, Humpty Smith's interpretation "a rag, a hank of hair and a bone" proved the success of another dance held over the city jail.

Because of the limited space and numerous window openings, Humpty was restricted to only anesthetic dances and did not extend his talent to osteopathic demonstrations.

Regardless of his tender attitude toward the dance, 496 hairpins, 12 shoe heels, and various and sundry articles of ladies haberdashery were found the morning after by the janitor.

An elderly lady after travelling 12 miles over a rough road in a rickety farm wagon approached a clerk in one of the dry goods establishments of the city and asked to see Humpty Smith, maintaining that that individual should be placarded in order to bear out distinction.

A popular debutante after dancing two minutes after the music stopped, suggested that "Beans" Levin be charged an additional fee at all dances for his lingering habits.

Insurance Rates REDUCED

By reason of our splendid fire protection in the city of Ada, our classification as to fire insurance has been raised. The rates on most all mercantile buildings and manufacturing industries have been reduced affecting all insurance policies written after January 15, 1923.

The change which will benefit most assureds is that of the elimination of the Three-Fourths Value Clause on all dwelling policies. In the past, it was necessary that the assured carry one-fourth of the valuation while under the present rules, dwelling property may be insured for full value.

To our own assureds, we wish to advise that we are preparing endorsements giving them benefit of this change by the elimination of the Three-Fourths Value Clause on existing policies we have in force.

We specialize in insurance and believe we can render a bit better service than most Agencies. We invite you to inquire of us as to insurance matters and be relieved of your insurance troubles.

What a royal plant it is! The world waits in attendance on its growth. The shower that falls whispering on its leaves is heard around the earth. The sun that shines on it is tempered by the prayers of all people. The frost that chills it and the dew that descends from the stars are noted, and the trespass of a little worm on its green leaf is more to England than the advance of the Russian army on her Asian outposts. It is sold from the instant it puts forth its tiny shoot. Its fibre is current in every bank, and when looting its fleeces to the sun, it floats a sunny banner that glorifies the field of the humble farmer; that man is marshalled under a flag that will compel the allegiance of the world, and wring a subsidy from every nation on earth. It is the heritage that God gave to this people forever as their own when he arched our skies, established our mountains, girt us about with the ocean, loosed the breezes, tempered the sunshine, and measured the rain. Ours and our children's forever. As princely a talent as ever came from His hand to mortal stewardship.—From an address by the late Henry W. Grady, of Georgia.

WIFE MURDERER HELD TO DISTRICT COURT ACTION

(By the Associated Press)
ARDMORE, Jan. 20.—Robert Barrett, charged with shooting his wife and Mrs. Zue Curry Weddell, this morning, was bound over to district court without bond after preliminary hearing here before justice of the peace William Butler.

Today, the state presented three witnesses while the defense waived. Immediately afterward the attorney for Barrett filed a petition for habeas corpus.

Houduras has dropped out of the League of Nations because of the high cost involved.

COMMUNITY CHORAL CLUB TO SING AT LECTURES

Members of the Community Choral club, who gathered for rehearsal Friday night were invited to learn that Mr. Cooke could not be present on account of illness. Mr. Cooke contracted a severe cold the last night that he was here and has been confined to his bed all week. He sends the message that he is getting along nicely and hopes to be fit along next rehearsal. Parts were given out and practice work was directed by Mrs. Norrell. An invitation was extended the choral club to sing at the First Methodist church next Friday evening at the lecture to be given by Col. Dan Morgan Smith, commander "Battalion of Death." Subject: "The World's War and the Fields of France." Rehearsal will begin at seven o'clock and the club will be a body to the church at eight o'clock. The Community Choral club was organized with the purpose of taking part in just such gatherings as this and it is hoped that 100 voices will gather to sing the patriotic songs, "America," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Onward Christian Soldiers." Let us make the membership 100 percent patriotic next Friday night.

CELEBRATES EIGHTY-THIRD BIRTHDAY

In honor of her mother, Mrs. Anne St. Clair, Mrs. W. C. Duncan invited a few friends in for noon dinner, Monday.

They were most cordially welcomed by Mrs. St. Clair and when invited into the dining room by the former's granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Duncan, each guest exclaimed with pleasure at the sight of 83 pink tapers burning on the birthday cake, which is a surrounding bank of greenery formed the centerpiece on the dining table.

Seated about the table with Mrs. St. Clair were Mr. and Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. Blinn, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cox, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Sothery. These guests were graciously served by the charming daughter of the house, Miss Dorothy.

Mrs. St. Clair, who was born in Florida is a typical southerner and on this occasion the conversation became more or less sentimental. These reminiscences covering many interesting and well spent years.

Mrs. St. Clair was quite active in knitting and ministering to the soldiers of the world war, as well as to those of our Civil war. Not only did she knit for her four state grandsons, who saw service both here and overseas, but for every mother's son that her strength and time could serve.

It was a delight to see the pleasure she derived from her many remembrances of letters, telegrams, and gifts. Pleasant conversation continued into the afternoon and evening derived inspiration and comfort at better thinking and in departing so sincerely showered Mrs. St. Clair with love and good wishes for other happy birthdays.

Refreshments were served to the following: Margaret Parker, Kath-

POPULAR MELODRAMA NOW ON THE SCREEN

Kentucky, home of mint julep aristocracy, beautiful women, thoroughbred horses and magnificent scenery.

The Pacific Ocean, romantic, tyrannic and historic, grave of hopes and born of idle dreams.

These two were the "Locations" of the Universal chases in filming "The Kentucky Derby" the Universal-Jewell special which will be shown at the McSwain theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

The story of the "The Kentucky Derby" is based on "The Suburban" a stage play which thousands re-acted today, though it was presented twenty years ago for the first time. Charles T. Dazey wrote it.

Universal assigned King Baggot to direct it immediately after he had made "Human Hearts" the country life picture now enjoying popularity on American screens.

Baggot chose Reginald Denry, Universal's star of "The Leather Pashers," as the best type for the leading male role.

Lillian Rich will be seen opposite Denry as a daughter of a stableman, brought by education and culture into the very heart of the most jaded aristocracy of the Blue Grass state.

Lionel Belmore, Emmett King, Gertrude Astor, Kinzie Benedict, Jerry Carter, Bert Tracy, Bert Woodruff, Walter McMill, Wilfred Lewis, Pat Hermon, Verne Winter and Anna Hernandez are other members of the all star cast.

Romantic variety and breath of scale is promised, the action switch from Kentucky to New York and then to the high seas and the China coast.

BOUQUET FOR CONN ROACH, ADA ATHLETE

He has often been referred to as "that fast little back from Ada." Last year he was a member of the football squad, but because he was ineligible, he did not make the team. But this year he was one of the strongest members of the "Garden Hurricane" and helped to gather in the glorious victories of which Tulsa University is so justly proud. He is an able field general as well as a shifty runner with the ball. Having played football at Ada for some time, he entered the Tulsa University a year ago this past fall, and since has been a loyal booster for the school.

Conn Roach is an able infielder at baseball, and looms as one of the big men in the team for '23. He is a member of the T. Club, having earned his letter in football this fall. Conn is Treasurer of the recently organized "Boosters" Club as well as being chairman of the Student Activity Committee.

A Phi Delta of high standing, Conn is also a member of the Geology Club, and is much interested in that line of work.

Last year he was a valuable addition to the Kendallabram staff as assistant business manager, working with manager Baleson.

A senior this year, Conn has worked hard throughout the year and earned his graduation.—Collegian.

High School News

"Professor Pepp," a modern drama, containing much humor, will be rendered by the dramatic talent of the two public speaking clubs of the high school, next Friday evening on the Teachers college stage, beginning at eight o'clock. Miss Nicholson and Mr. German are directing the rehearsals, and the fine talent of the student body gives promise of a splendid program.

Outraged Farmer Shoots Banker And Kills Pursuer

(By the Associated Press)
JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Jan. 20.—Clifford C. Garm, prominent banker and Jeff E. Lowe, prominent drainage engineer worker, both residents of Beardstown, Illinois, were shot and instantly killed in this city tonight by Oro C. Braden, a farmer.

The trouble is said to have started over a mortgage held by a bank of Beardstown, of which Garm was cashier on a farm owned by Braden. After shooting Garm, Braden was pursued by Lowe who caught him and in the struggle which followed Braden shot Lowe in the back of the head, killing him instantly.

The average year's Pacific coast hop yield is 200,000 bales.

CHURCHES

First Baptist Church
Our Sunday school is getting back to normalcy again. We had 435 present at the church and 94 at the mission, making a total in all of 529. We hope to see an attendance at both places of above six hundred in the near future.

The Men's Bible Class is also growing some. Every man in town who is not already attending Sunday school elsewhere is urged to attend there. Mr. Ellison is the teacher and you will greatly enjoy hearing him.

The morning service at the church begins at 11 o'clock. The choir will be under the direction of Mr. Longly Fentem. The pastor will preach at that hour on the subject, "The Friends of Jesus."

The B. Y. P. U. will all meet at 6:30. These organizations are doing a wonderful work and giving the young people a training that they cannot get anywhere else. All young people invited.

The Sunbeams will meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. W. W. O'Neal in charge.

The evening service will begin at 7:30. We emphasize congregational singing at all our services but especially at the evening hour. The pastor will preach on the subject, "Freedom from Slavery." An urgent appeal will be made for the unsaved to accept Christ Jesus the Lord. Our crowds have taxed the capacity of the building. Young people attend the services in a gratifying way. We hope to see you present.—Clyde Calhoun Morris, pastor.

WETUMKA FIELD SHOWING GROWTH

Extensive Drilling and Natural Resources to Aid City Expansion.

WETUMKA, Okla., Jan. 20.—(Special to the News.)—With a daily production of 3,500 barrels of 42 gravity oil and 300,000,000 feet of gas per day, Wetumka is taking large strides toward becoming a very prosperous and enterprising city.

The larger oil companies hold the principle interests in the Wetumka field, and are promoting their interests on larger scales. The Prairie Oil & Gas Company have located a very complete and extensive pipe and machine yards close to the field and have purchased a city block and at the present time are building a Frisco switch through the entire length. The following companies have been allotted locations on the Frisco right-of-way and are awaiting the final approval of the Frisco authorities: National Supply Co., Sutherland Lumber Co., Oklahoma Tool & Supply Co., Frick Reid Supply Co., Republic Supply Co., Black, Sivalis & Bryson Tank Co., and Pickering Lumber Co.

In addition to these the Oil Well Supply Co., Western Supply Co., Beggs Machine & Supply Co., Parkersburg Rig & Reel Co., have locations about the city while the Muskogee Tool Co., Acme Tool & Supply Co., Sutherland Lumber Co., McIntosh Lumber Co., Billington Lumber Co., and the Weetka Lumber Co., have their buildings up and are doing a very good business. Many authorities have compared the Wetumka pool with the Cushing field and are banking on extensive operations all around the city.

In addition to Wetumka's oil prospects, the city's location makes it first class trading center the year around. It is located in one of the most productive agricultural sections of the country. The fact that there are five large cotton gins, twelve retail merchandise stores and three National banks with yearly deposits of one and one-half million dollars, serves as a barometer of the value of Wetumka as a trading center; however, the city is greatly in need of a creamery, laundry and a large modern hotel. These are to come with time.

The Wetumka chamber of commerce has been active for several years and at the present time J. L. Walther is employed as a permanent secretary. The third Wednesday of each month has been designated as trades day and the farmers gather from miles around to take advantage of the special bargains offered by the merchants. Wetumka has the honor of holding the first trades day in this section of the state. In addition to the weekly meetings held by the chamber of commerce, the leading merchants gather each Wednesday for a turkey dinner and smoker, and are negotiating plans for the organization of a Kiwanis club.

Wetumka has three ward schools, and a new $70,000 high school now under construction. A large addition to the city has been made on the east and nearly all of the lots have been sold for residences. Due to the large amount of gas around the city it is expected that industries of various kinds will awaken to the fact that it would make a profitable location, especially the glass factories as the sand in this vicinity contains a high percentage of quartz.

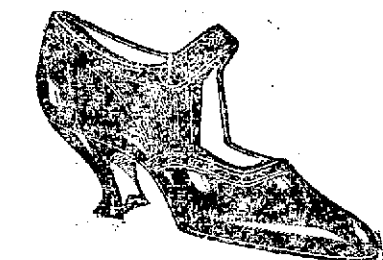

All the facts go to show that

Wetumka is bound to grow and develop into a nice little city based upon the substantiality of its business firms and its progressive farmers.

START WORK ON SPAVINAW DAM

High Pressure Reservoir is
Started; Project to Cost
$6,000,000.

(By the Associated Press)
TULSA, Okla., Jan. 19.—Actual construction work is in progress at several places on the $6,000,000 project that will bring water from the Spavinaw river in Mayes county to this city. Pipe is being laid from the high pressure reservoir site on a high hill north of the city limits to the pumping station and the city mains. This pipe is 36 inches in diameter and is made of cast iron.

The high pressure reservoir will be one of the first units of the project to be completed, and it is planned to put it in use in connection with the present system at once. The connection with the present pumping and filtration station on the Arkansas river bank, where water is now obtained, will make it possible for Arkansas river water to be pumped into the 10,000,000 gallon reservoir from the river. The height of the reservoir will furnish the necessary pressure.

While it is not expected that it will be necessary to filter the Spavinaw water, the connection with the filtration plant will make that possible should it become necessary at any season of the year, according to the engineers.

Work is one-fourth completed on the 500,000-gallon storage reservoir at Mohawk which is located four miles from Tulsa. Water from Spavinaw creek 55 miles away will flow by gravity to Mohawk. It will be pumped into the high pressure reservoir and distributed from that point to the city mains. Flat Rock creek has already been diverted into Bird creek at Mohawk.

Other points where work is in progress include Tiawah, where a tunnel over a mile long is being excavated, several places along the line where aqueducts are being built and at Spavinaw, where a large crew of workers is clearing the bed of the proposed lake. Work is scheduled to begin on the dam soon, it was announced.

Inquiry Into Appointment.

Nesbitt Flays Marketing of Road Bonds on Future Construction Proposition

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 19.—County commissioners should not sell road bonds until construction work is ready to start and no commission should be paid for the sale of the bonds, according to the recommendations contained in a letter from Paul Nesbitt, commissioner of highways to Gov. J. C. Walton, made public today.

Nesbitt recommended in his letter that the legislature be asked to pass laws to effect the reform he proposed.

Nesbitt said that road bonds are sold sometimes two years in advance of the need for the money and that bonds usually draw five percent interest. He pointed out further that in many instances the money is loaned back to the taxpayers at ten per cent interest for the use of their own money.

Attacking the practice of selling county bonds through brokers which charge commissions while their "entire investment is in office and office furniture," Nesbitt recommended in his letter that the state should provide an agency through which bonds could be sold without commissions.

"I take this view of it for the same reason that I believe the cotton broker and the grain broker is not essential to the marketing of farm products, and that his profits come off the producers," Nesbitt wrote.

"The people who pay the taxes on the bonds that are issued are due the same protection from those who pay nothing, have nothing invested and reap splendid returns for commission work."

Taking up the question of the sale of bonds in advance of the time construction is to begin, the highway commissioner wrote:

"It has come to my attention that where bonds are sold for road construction in various counties, pressure is brought to bear to have the county commissioners sell the bonds immediately. These bonds draw interest usually at five percent. The money is placed in the local banks and lies there until construction work begins. In some of the counties of this state construction work has not begun for two years after the bonds were sold. In the meantime the money is being loaned back to the taxpayers at ten percent."

"To state the case concisely: The taxpayers are paying five percent on the bonds and their own money is being loaned back to them at ten percent, making a total of fifteen percent per annum on the bond money for which they are not receiving anything in return."

"Road construction bonds should not be sold until the state engineer has completed the plans and is ready to receive bids, and a law should be passed making it mandatory upon the county commissioners not to sell any bonds for such road construction until notified to do so by the highway department.

"Another matter that I think should receive the attention of the legislature is that of selling bonds through the agency of bond brokers. It seems to be the practice for bond buyers representing eastern concerns to buy these construction bonds. They apparently do not invest a dollar of their own money and their entire investment is in office and office furniture. Their commission naturally comes out of the sale of the bonds and where counties issue large amounts these commissions run into thousands of dollars."

OKLAHOMA CITY.—A toll bridge over a small stream between Idabel and Broken Bow, in McCurtain county, was tentatively assessed by the state board of equalization this week at $6,000, and the assessment made retroactive for six years in which the bridge has not been taxed it was announced. It was declared at the meeting that the bridge has been paying an average of 20 percent on an investment of $10,000.

LUTE DOUGE WRITES TO POULTRY BREEDERS

Well, poultry folks, I am a little slow about it, but I want to thank you for helping to make one of the best, fact is, it was the best show that has ever been held in Pontotoc county and I am quite proud of it. Now as that is past history let's begin right now and get ready for the next one, and make it bigger and better than our past one. We had several new exhibitors this time and I was glad to see them, as we old "roosters" had really got tired of "scratching" together, and no new birds to help us. One thing I am particularly pleased about is that every one seemed to be in a good humor and satisfied with the winnings as they were placed. That is the right kind of a spirit to have in regard to the way the ribbons are hung. Our poultry judges are all, (or most all) human and liable to err, and make mistakes. A game loser and a happy winner is what makes things pleasant to the fellows who are in charge of the show. I haven't heard a "kick" up to date, and it is too late now, so we will call all "kicks" off.

On January 23rd there will be held at Chamber of Commerce, a meeting at 7:30 p. m. to elect new officers for 1923, and transact other business that may come before the association, and I would be glad to see every member out and "have a say." Let's have a real "get-together" meeting. There are sixty of us now and we can have a good time "swapping" chicken "dope." I would be glad if we could have meetings once a month, and plan for the future. What do you think about the idea? Then don't you know we have a chance to win $150.00 this year, just by getting more new members to join the association, than any other county in the state? I believe 150 new members will pull the prize. I have 20 of them now, and will obligate myself to get 30 more during the year. Will you do the rest?

Now this invitation is not only for members, but extended to all that are interested in poultry, or those that want to see us win, so come out and let's "get-er-go-in'". Don't you know that three of our chicken raisers put Pontotoc county on the map at Cushing, by winning three out of five of the special cash premiums offered." Give us a "boost" and help win again.

We certainly had a nice exhibit of turkeys, and hope that the turkey "men" will come stronger next season. We will try to have better cooage for them. Mr. Floyd of the Pay-o-la milk station, wants to make some kind of a proposition, to the poultry raisers regarding eggs they have to market. Come and hear what it is. It may be worth something to you in a financial way.

Last, but not least, in behalf of the association, I want to thank the Merchants Association, for the support they gave our show, and the nice part about it was it was without solicitation, "free will offering." We are certainly grateful, as it is the first time that we ever had any assistance, without soliciting it. It made us feel as though we amounted to something in their estimation, at least $50 worth, which they gave us.

Come out Tuesday, January 23, 7:30 and let's have a "round table talk."

Yours Truly,
LUTE DOUGE, Sec'y.

A Nation's Tribute to Buick

There is an inspiring tribute to an industry in the universal recognition annually accorded the National Automobile Shows.

Thousands come to these exhibitions from every section of the continent and from foreign lands as well, and their advent is widely heralded the world over.

In the twenty-third National Automobile Show, just opening in New York, and later in Chicago, the nation is provided with a display of its chief means of personal transportation. This display is so complete and so magnificently set forth that all who come may easily carry away a perfect picture of the latest accomplishments in motor car building.

Year after year the national shows receive the homage of the entire country. Year after year they mark by their own increased magnitude and splendor, the increased growth of the automobile industry.

In occupying first place at both national shows for the fifth consecutive year, Buick continues the position in the industry awarded it by universal public opinion.

Everything Points to the Greatest Spring Demand for Ford Products in Company's History

1,202,517 Ford Cars and Trucks were delivered to retail purchasers in the United States alone during 1922—

Actual deliveries for last month greatly exceeded any previous December in the history of the Ford Motor Company.

It was the ninth consecutive month in which more than 100,000 Ford Cars and Trucks were retailed—keeping the Ford Plants working at capacity to meet dealers' requirements—

In many parts of the country dealers are already finding it necessary to specify later delivery dates on certain types because there are no reserve stocks to draw from—

Commercial users, business houses and farmers, anticipating their future requirements, are placing orders and taking delivery of Ford Cars, Trucks and Fordson Tractors to insure against delay—

Everything points to the biggest shortage of Ford Products this Spring that has ever existed—

The only way you can be sure of obtaining delivery of a Ford Car, Truck or Fordson Tractor is to list your order immediately—

We have given you these facts as they actually exist so that if you are planning to purchase a Ford Car, Truck or Tractor for use this Spring or Summer, you can list your order now and take advantage of our dealer's first opportunity to make delivery.
